Dedication

There is one factor which decides the distinction of a superior university, something more than an excellent faculty, modern facilities, a Cotton-bowl football team, above-average students, or progressive policies. It is an accumulation of these attributes, but beyond this, it is a final product. The men and women graduating from Duke University each year form an ever-enlarging body known as the Alumni. They carry with them the name of this university into every conceivable field of service and employment. Through their accomplishments, the name of Duke has, in the period of little more than a quarter-century, gained prestige and respect as an educational institution. Year after year, professions and industries repeat their interviews for prospective employees because former Duke graduates have proven themselves outstanding. These emplovers have learned that a Duke Alumnus is a wise investment.

However, we thank our Alums for more than having paved our way for a warm reception in the outside world. Alumni groups are becoming increasingly active in their contributions and interest in the University itself. In the last twelve years, the number of contributors to the Loyalty Fund has more than doubled, and in this period a total of over $5.5 million has been accumulated. Alumni associations are also taking a growing interest in the policies and activities of the University. It is for their support, enthusiasm, and loyalty that we dedicate this 1961 CHAN-TICLEER to Duke Alumni everywhere. We salute with pride especially those alums who are currently holding positions of high achievement in every field-Medicine, Forestry, Religion, Law, Politics and Government, Business, and the Arts. And it is with gratitude and respect that we take this opportunity to recognize the manwho co-ordinates Duke Alumni affairsour own Mr. Charles Dukes.

Campus Life

With fall freshmen descend on West Campus to "begin" . . .

September 15—and here they come!
"Better informed" frosh men and women from California to Venezuela to Pakistan hauled in luggage to "set up" a new home. A hectic week—mixers . . .
exams . . . meetings . . . the Y "Yogi Bear" Dance. No sooner settled than the upperclassman descended—

While on East, Co-eds are unleashed on the University . . .

A week later upperclassmen unleash on co-eds.

Friendship . . .

Tradition . . .

Spirit.

New pinnings and engagements . . . roommates screamed after a long summer apart . . . Nurses had capping . . . fratmen inaugurated their social programs with cabin parties, Sunday "afternoons," section barbeques, dances . . . Upperclassmen moved into freshman territory flaunting their cars . . . Battle started his Russian series.

Meanwhile the Chronicle returns to two issues . . .

Sororities rush . .

The Ambassadors blow.

A Durham fall without rain—Yes! and how we enjoyed football in the sun (only one game in the rain) . . . the Duke gardens . . . the tennis courts . . . Mother's . . . the rock . . . the Eno. But it poured on Dink Bow Day as the Freshmen invaded Card Gymnasium for the dance which replaced the traditional games and picnic. Gals on East managed to survive rush between tension, heat and studies—what excitement as every sorority pledged the "best" freshman girls.

Progress . . . concrete-

Herberg, Kaufman, and Hopper descended on campus (thanks to Symposium Committee) to discuss—not without flaring tempers—"Post Christian Man." For the three days of their November visit students attended panels and speeches and digested new thoughts in late hour bull sessions.

and spirited.

Sunday afternoon religious rituals are well attended by the student body.

"O. K. boys, when I give the word we all rush the Beta house and you know what to do."

Shoe 'n' Slipper means dancing ...

aching feet . . .

Socially-Four Freshmen crooned . . . BOS-Sandles danced to the Larry Wooly Combo . . . Shoe 'n Slipper enticed Les Brown and the Glenn Miller Band to campus . . . Dad's Day.

Culturally-Sunday organ recitals in the Chapel . . . Chamber Arts brought the New York String Sextet and the Hungarian String Quartet . . . Young Artists Series brought Rey de la Torre . . . Dad's Day Concert . . . Marcel Marceau and Vronsky and Babin starred in the All-Star Artists Series . . . Duke Symphony Concert . . . Grover Smith (professor of "inclusive tastes") gave a Last Lecture . . . Student Union brought Benjamin Mayes who saw integration as "next step" in race relations (grave foreshadowing) . . . Frog Wood sponsored by the Wesley Players enjoyed a big success.

Homecoming...Blue Devil takes sting out of the Yellow-jackets.

Football...pep rallies—even a dance at Gilbert-Addoms . . . Frosh got Navy's goat . . . Homecoming "wrecked Tech" —helped by Co-ed's in Homecoming Show . . . humiliation at Carolina and UCLA (although the players had a tremendous time).

The Delts build their scales to tip the balance of victory in our favor.

Co-eds scrimmage at the Homecoming show.

"Thass right, fellas, Ah stands fo' clean livin'."

And—among other things, the girls on East decided they could teach the boys how to play football so they invaded West Campus, uniforms and all for their rough 'n tumble "powderpuff game" ... MSGA and others discussed "the role of Men's Student Government in government of the campus"—this lasted all year, among recommendations for Code changes, investigations, evaluations . . .

Phi Beta and Who's Who inducted the "wheels" on the campus ... the ATO's got caught ...

"Let's wait till it dies down a little before we open the marshmallows."

Stevenson boosts Democrats . . .

Betty and Kathy push Republicans . . .

Politics invaded campus—Stevenson came to plug the Democrats—they needed it as a campus poll showed undergraduates favored Nixon two to one. Grad students and Faculty dissented favoring Kennedy—seems they were on the right track. Booths gave out free material... tempers sometimes flared in discussion . . . enthusiasts joined in meetings. Even after elections, discussions continued . . . but Duke returned to a settled pattern as the cold of winter arrived . . .

as fall moves toward winter.

Winter...

Winter brings romancing indoors . . .

December ushered in the Co-ed Ball, Fraternity dances—and the ZBT Ugliest Man Contest (Larry Schriver had the ugliest mug).

Basketball season got well under way—victory after victory... Duke walked off with honors from the State Student Legislature... Gross spoke on the future of Duke—not too optimistic... the Archive substituted an "appropriate" cover... President Hart emphasized academic excellence in his Founder's Day Speech.

Machines will conquer us yet!

Changed registration procedures brought loud cries of disapproval—but everyone survived. On East—Long Range Planning Committees sprouted as the students made their entrance on the planning scene . . . a few, seeking "intellectual integration," started the Experimental Dormitory germ (followed later by their West counterparts) . . . Terpsichorean presented a "Yule Fest" . . . dormitory windows exhibited Christmas trees and decorations . . .

An "Artist Series" performance no doubt.

And fourth period's not even over yet.

They said it couldn't be done, and . . .

Sleet came down full force to put the campus in ice—but things were hot as the "efigy" fire lighted up the campus—Dr. Hart didn't get much sleep for a few nights.

And following a similar theme on East, Branson was the scene of attention December 7-11 as the Duke Players presented The Crucible.

hang it all . . .

it couldn't.

Basketball comes with emotion—cheers . . .

and another Good Sportsmanship award.

As one semester turns into another, Christmas cheer precedes . . .

December 17-we left in droves (only six students injured in accidents) to get "Home for the Holidays" (a few sneaked away early pretending to have jobs) . . . After Santa Claus visited, a few watched the Cotton Bowl victory on TV . . . the less fortunate tuned in via radio . . . the most fortunate were in the band.

The return to campus wasn't too cheerful as exams loomed ahead-some took them pretty seriously while others . . . But then, the faculty refused additional study roomsjust not enough room!

and exam fatigue.

"Seriously fellows, I'm almost asleep on my feet from all these rush parties."

"Whaddya mean 'a man's deoderant'?"

After exams—Rush! And how West Campus jumped for two weeks since all C
Freshman men were "urged" to participate—
38% of the class pledged.
Vying with this excitement was basketball—that is, basketball with U.N.C....
Everyone had a heyday at the game and afterwards charging and defending—

Carolina was sore because Heyman hadn't taken McGuire's "underground railroad" to Carolina.

Moe receives a standing ovation from Duke supporters as he limps into the waiting arms of amiable Frank McGuire.

Cheap foreign labor . . .

It's doubtful if Mr. Dewey had a number for this one.

Internationalism hit the campus with the UN Model Assembly-students poured in from many colleges and universities, representing various nationalities. Even President of the General Assembly, Boland, visited the campus to speak. Other bits of interest-Kennedy tapped Angier B. Duke into the State Department . . . Detroit Symphony made a hit . . . Dr. Everett Hopkins became the new Vice-President for University Advancement . . . A Russian Affairs professorship was established . . . Koestler spoke (?) . . . Langford gave a "Last Lecture" reasserting his Christian faith . . . MSGA tapped Sinking Fund and questioned NSA value . . . East women participated in a student exchange.

Duke becomes a microcosm of the world conflict.

Spring horseplay—pelting the "Pest."

The Undergraduate Reading Room loses its attraction.

Spring came bombing in . . . pledges went through hell . . . studying (?) moved outdoors . . . a plague of spring fever swept the campus—even the East caravan couldn't arouse much excitement—desegregation caused little more than a ripple in the student consciousness . . .

Spring fever . . .

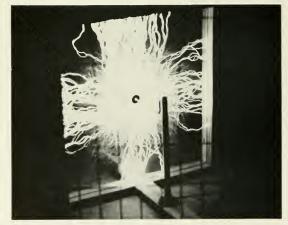

Girls received a special welcome to the Engineer's Show.

The liberal element . . .

But the spring fever didn't afflict all ... the picketers (even the University profs joined the fun) kept up steady dissent ... the engineers slaved up to the last minute on the "Show." High school students descended onto the campus, vying for Angier Duke scholarships ... others came to take in the scenery (nuisance!) as Duke once again became the "country club of the South." Golfers came to life ... class attendance lowered.

Other major events included George London's concert... productions of St. Joan and J.B.... Glee Club, Band, and Symphony concerts... Parents Weekend... publication of a new bulletin, "Unofficial Guide to Courses for Upperclassmen," with remarks such as "Lectures uncomprehensible" not fully appreciated by victim.

Engineers exhibit man-made lightning.

Scholars and politicians reaped rewards... new leaders took the reins of campus (ever guided by our wise administration)... Duke had an all-time high with 19 Woodrow Wilson scholars. "All work and no play..." you know—so the "Null and Void" "rounded out" hardworking students. And then Fort Lauderdale contributed its share of the fun (if you consider a night in jail fun)... and TV viewers witnessed a Duke co-ed's skill at chugging brew.

Joe College visits legendland—Yes—first rain in the history of Joe College parades (sorry imports!), but the Kappas and the SAE's kept theirs together long enough . . . the Ambassadors blared in the East Union as the Exchange picnic moved indoors . . . Count Bassie entertained a crowd. The sun came through for the lawn concert and the Brothers Four (related not) . . . blankets and box lunches and . . . then Saturday night—frat cabin parties . . . informal dance . . . Among other activities—Greek Week...the Fraternity-Sorority Sing—the Kappa's and ATO's sang away first places...tennis courts overflowed... sun decks produced freckled-faces co-eds...picnics and beer parties...panic over term papers. Summer approached...plans for European tours or a not-so-romantic job in the 'ole U.S. Seniors joyfully, yet not without an occasional nostalgic twinge, awaited "the day"—the end of four years whose value can be judged only in the future.

Men's Student Government

Through the action of members of the Men's Student Government Association, several innovations were brought to West Campus this year. The first Excellence in Teaching Award sponsored by MSGA, was presented to Dr. Morton Lowengrub of the Math Department. Awarded to a faculty member for outstanding performance in the art of teaching, the three criteria for selection for this annual award are interest in and concern for students, stimulation of thought, and disciplined course material. A campus-wide program to create an awareness of student responsibility was also initiated. One part of this program was a proposal requesting that students refrain from damaging school property. The second phase included Citizenship Awards made to the outstanding Fraternity, Freshman, and Independent Dormitories which throughout the year demonstrated the best qualities of citizenship. A trophy was presented to the winners in each of the three divisions on the basis of a report made by a special committee appointed by the President. Winners were approved by the Senate.

The new office of Attorney-General was created this year to review all constitutional matters concerning the scope of MSGA. The position of Public Information Coordinator to handle all information to and from students concerning Senate matters was also established.

Several commissions were established by MSGA as part of its job as representative of student opinion on campus. A committee was formed to conduct a general survey of student feeling on West Campus living conditions and the results were presented to the Administration. A student Commission on Academic Freedom for the purpose of investigating and reporting on infringements of the academic freedom or freedom of expression of any student, faculty member, or research scholar was newly established this year. General campus opinion was also heeded as the present Traditions Program was revised. The offices of Sophomore, Junior, and Senior Class were limited to President, Vice-President, Secretary-Treasurer, and Athletic Representative as a result of a proposal originating in and passed by MSGA. The MSGA legislature expressed sympathy for the Negro picket lines, feeling them to be "part of the greater movement toward liberty and justice for all." Two conferences and a dinner meeting were held with the Deans of the University to discuss the general areas where student government could be most effective.

The three branches of the MSGA—executive, legislature, and judiciary—work together as the supreme instrument of government in regulating the affairs of all male students on the Duke University campus. The association's purpose is to promote the best interests of the University while advancing the welfare of the individual students on campus at all times.

The President's Cabinet, including the Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer, Secretary of Education, Secretary of Student Life, and the NSA Coordinator, was headed this year by President Frank Ballance. At its meetings, open at all times for student opinions and ideas, the Cabinet discussed policies the student government should follow and formulated plans for the future. The executive branch organized all proposed legislation and, after the approval of bills by the Senate, was responsible for executing the approved statutes.

A Student Senate, consisting of two representatives from each of the four classes and the executive officers of the association, discussed matters of campus-wide interest and used its power to regulate, supervise, charter, and determine the status of all men's campus organizations.

Student Government Association

WSGA, as the official governing body of the Woman's College, acts as the representative link between East Campus students, the University, and the community. In its leadership role, WSGA seeks to bring before its members those issues of the campus, community, and nation which should be of concern to the students. Every student of the Woman's College, as a member of the Association, has the opportunity to present her ideas and express her opinions on these matters. This is done at weekly Council meetings and at monthly student body assemblies.

The Central organ of the Association is the Council, composed of the officers of the Association, the dormitory presidents, a representative from each class, and the chairmen of WSGA auxiliary organizations. This Council acts as both the executive and legislative branches of the Association. In addition to its regular weekly meetings, the Council held five work shops this year in an effort to develop WSGA into a more vital and all-encompassing organization on campus. Judicial power is vested in a Judicial Board composed of the Chairman, a secretary, and a representative from each dorm. The House Presidents' Board and House Vice Presidents' Board serve to coordinate dormitory functions while Sandals, Social Standards Committee, Freshman Advisory Council, National Student Association, Coordinate Board, Foreign Student Committee, and Campus Chest are also auxiliaries of WSGA.

WSGA is dedicated to the advancement and progress of the University, and, to serve these ends, has worked closely with MSGA. Throughout the year, the Council has strived to broaden the scope of its activities. Sending delegates to the NSA National Congress and the NSA Conference on the Peace Corps proposal, having representatives at State Student Legislature, contributing to the Symposium, and co-sponsoring the Model United Nations General Assembly with MSGA and the two "Y's", are examples of its community involvement. The Council has sought to contribute further to the campus by a Leadership Training Program, a Curriculum Evaluation Program, general course evaluation sheets for freshmen in the spring semester, and work on the new registration process.

Having undergone rigorous constitutional revision this year, and having developed a new determination of comprehensive purpose, WSGA has played a vital role in the development of East Campus. Through the establishment of a Student Long Range Planning Committee to parallel the Faculty-Administration Committee on East Campus Affairs, WSGA has assumed responsibility in the planning of the future of the Woman's College. Recognizing the need for anticipating and providing for the needs of individuals in the College, WSGA worked for the realization of the Experimental Dorm as a creative and beneficial project. The idea of a student exchange program, also new to Duke, materialized into a week's exchange with Radcliffe College, Sarah Lawrence College, and the University of Pennsylvania. Pursuing the idea of an active student in a changing community, the Council expressed itself on various matters of national and local concern, and encouraged the entire student body to take action on such issues as the theater demonstrations for integration and President Kennedy's recommendation of a peace youth corps.

The Council this year has sought to involve the entire campus in its deliberations and undertakings. Through such means as the WSGA newsletter, the Chronicle, and campus and dorm discussions, the members of the Association are familiar with the concerns of Council. In these ways the Council has sought to develop its leadership functions and to fulfill its obligation of keeping the campus informed on pertinent matters.

Association.

The Men's Judicial Board, as its name implies, is the judiciary branch of the M.S.G.A. Although the board functions as a court in hearing cases of student misdemeanors, it is not limited to the duties of a tribunal. The real purpose of this body is to give guidance to those students who appear before it. In addition, the board plays a vital role in campus life, as it assists in maintaining order in the university community and interprets the constitution of the M.S.G.A.

The board hears student cases at its weekly meetings, which are normally closed sessions in the interests of the individual. However, the views of Freshman House Presidents, I.F.C. and I.D.C. officers, and representatives of the administration are often sought, not only in determining a particular decision, but also in the interests of general policy. Although all decisions are subject to administrative review, such action has rarely been taken in the past. Composed of nine members, six seniors and three juniors appointed by the head of the M.S.G.A., the board was guided this year by Chairman Steve Hunt.

The "Rules Test," which quizzes East Campus freshman and juniors on the most recent changes in regulations, is just one of the main services of the Woman's College Judicial Board. The Judicial Board is active in many capacities, all of which serve to strengthen and uphold East's Code of Campus Livine.

The board consists of one representative from each dormitory, a chairman and a secretary elected by the student body, and the WSGA president as an ex-officio member. It met weekly, under Chairman Lissa Cook, to handle violations of the East Campus rules and to suggest methods of improving these rules.

As well as evaluating, reorganizing and enforcing the regulations of the Woman's College, the members sent letters to the new students and held open mock trials to acquaint these students with the procedures of the Board. The Judicial Board serves an important part in the government of the East Campus student body and it is a significant example of the ability of East Campus women to govern themselves.

SAM YANCY Y—FAC Chairman

The Freshman Advisory Council completed its fourth year of guiding the bewildered freshman class through its first few weeks of college life. Following the motto, "Don't think, ask a Y man," the new arrivals resorted to the seventy-two members of Sam Yancy's white-shirted corps for information on everything from easy profs to dating rules on East Campus. The "Y" men, sacrificing a week of summer vacation, played an indispensible part in the orientation week program by proctoring tests, aiding the hospital staff in freshman physical examinations, and meeting the freshman girls.

Chosen in the spring on the basis of interviews and past record, the FAC served as an integral part of the YMCA. In addition to chairman Sam Yancy, the officers were junior chairmen Jerry Pieh, Clay Pruitt, and Bill Taylor. The Council had three spring meetings featuring Dr. Edens and Dr. Waldo Beach. The service of this group has become one of the most important and appreciated aspects of the Freshman program.

Rising junior and senior FAC women are appointed in the spring by the Dean of Undergraduate Instruction from recommendations of the Woman's College staff, old and new Council Chairmen, old FAC's, old and new House Presidents, and House Judicial Representatives. Selections are based on character, service, leadership, and scholarship. FAC's undergo a training program in the spring to facilitate their work the following fall.

Although the accent is on Orientation Week, FAC's continue their work throughout the year. The small FAC groups, usually no larger than eight, are vital in aiding new co-eds in their adjustment to Duke life.

The first group of student advisors was formed in 1931, the year after the Woman's College was founded. Initially sponsored by the YWCA, the advisors later became an auxiliary of the WSGA, and the advisory chairman became a member of the WSGA Council.

Engineer's Guidance Council

The Engineer's Student Council, since 1953, has acted as the formal link between the student of the College of Engineering and the University administration. The chief governing body of engineering students, the Council is composed of engineering class presidents, professional society representatives, four elected officers, and two members-at-large.

The Engineer's Show, sponsored annually by the E.S.C., displays the student engineer's ability and ingenuity and attracts visitors from many parts of the area. Under chairman Mike Mattingly, the E.S.C. organized and presented an Open House for freshmen during Orientation Week, maintained a student lounge, and also supported the Engineer's Guidance Council during the past year.

Many freshman engineering students are indebted to the Engineer's Guidance Council for its assistance in helping the prospective engineer adjust to his required courses and, at the same time, meet the demands for extra-curricular activities during his first semester of college life. As part of its program the council sponsors physics review sessions before each physics hour quiz and also offers assistance in the other fundamental engineering courses—calculus, geometry, and mechanical drawing.

Organized four years ago, the council is composed of about forty students from the three upper classes of the College of Engineering. Members, selected through interviews in the spring, are chosen on the basis of academic record, maturity, and dependability. The council chairman for this year was Bruce Ickes.

Concentrating on the interests, problems, and aspirations of the student, NSA works to strengthen student government on campus and to cut through political, religious, social and racial barriers. Its major fields of interest are human relations, national and international affairs, and educational affairs.

On the international level, NSA provides low-cost tours to Europe, Asia, Africa, and Latin America. It is associated with UNESCO and is a member of the American Council on Education. It also sponsors various national conferences such as the National Student Congress, the Student Body President's Congress, and the Conference on Foreign Student Affairs.

During this year NSA worked with the Young Democrats, the Young Republicans, and the Human Relations Committee. It gave a leadership program for freshman; and for the first time, a freshman NSA committee was set up on East. Duke delegates attended the national NSA conference; and Chuck Silket, West Campus chairman, was elected president of the regional conference.

Student Union

The Student Union offers the Duke campus a comprehensive year-round schedule of student activities, touching on all areas of social, cultural, recreational, and educational interests. Union policy and activities are determined by a Board of Governors, composed of eleven seniors, led this year by Chairman Byron Battle. Particular responsibility and leadership, however, are entrusted to individual committees, including Music and Arts, Social, Educational Affairs, Recreational, Major Attractions, House, and Publicity.

The Union's activities during the past year were certainly noteworthy. Because of Student Union sponsorship, the student body was able to hear addresses by such eminent Americans as U.N. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson and Benjamin Mays, President of Morehead College. A Last Lecture Series by University professors was initiated this year. Entertainment agenda incuded campus appearances by the Four Freshmen and the Dukes of Dixieland. The Union also sponsored various contests and tournaments, such as a photography contest; conducted numerous campus services, including a student ride bureau; and with Candlelight Cabarets and dances added to Duke's social life.

Symposium Committee

The Symposium Committee plays a unique role on campus and fulfills a definite need. The committee attempts to arrange a valuable and provocative intellectual experience which will be the center of the yearly intellectual presentation on campus.

The 1960 Symposium topic was "Post Christian Man." The committee secured three eminent scholars, Drs. Will Herberg and Stanley Hooper of Drew University, and Dr. Walter A. Kaufmann of Princeton, to discuss the movement of American society away from its Judeo-Christian heritage and its search for new values and their application to modern life. The three day symposium consisted of addresses by each of the three major speakers and three panel seminars in which several other Duke scholars participated. Students were also given the opportunity to take part in discussions with the visitors at the more informal afternoon coffees.

The Symposium Committee is made up of selected representatives of each of the three upper classes as well as members of major campus organizations and faculty representatives. Dave Sanford was chairman of the Symposium Committee for 1960.

University traffic regulations in which the student feels he has been unjustly accused.

The court convenes on alternate Thursday evenings. Kent Bishop presided over court sessions this year. The original intention in founding the Court of Appeals was to insure more efficient and more equitable judicial action. The importance of this body is easily illustrated, for its decisions are virtually final.

From the moment that the unsuspecting freshman appears on campus until the termination of Freshman Traditions period, he is under the supervision and surveillance of the Traditions Board. Established in 1951 to teach freshmen Duke traditions, songs, customs, and history, the Board distributes Freshman dinks and administers a Traditions Test early in the fall. Those failing to pass the test are brought before the Board for instruction, counsel, and punishment. During the year hearings are also held for other delinquent freshmen.

Working towards strengthening the traditions of Duke University by acquainting freshmen with various aspects of its history, Traditions Board encourages a strong feeling of unity and school spirit in each freshman class. Headed this year by Rod Kotchin, the board membership is composed of representatives from many campus organizations.

Student Co-ordinate Board

ANNETTE SEWARD
Chairman

The Co-ordinate Board, acting as an intermediary between the Administration, the faculty, and the student body, serves in a unique capacity in making recommendations to WSGA Council on the basis of polls and investigations of student opinion. An auxiliary of WSGA, the Board often carries out projects initiated by the Council of this body; and its influence lies in its suggestion and recommendation power.

Headed by Chairman Annette Seward, Co-ordinate Board's twenty members performed such services as completing the central exam file in the East Library, writing letters of welcome to new faculty members and Pan-Hel letters to East freshmen, assisting in the introduction of the new registration system, and many other small "co-ordinating" functions. In addition, the Board held discussions on campus needs within its own group.

The Student Forum highlighted its activities this year with two programs given in February and March. Medieval Renaissance and Baroque Music was presented by New York's Pro-Musica Antiqua. Campus Chest

The support of Annamarie Koch, a nine-year old Austrian orphan, is one of several projects for which the Campus Chest is responsible. Contributions are made to several other charities, chosen by a special Campus Chest committee each year. Evaluation of the organizations is made by examination of the work done by the charity and by personal interviews with representatives from each organization.

The Chest operates on the same system as a United Fund, enabling students to donate one sum at a specified time rather than making several separate contributions throughout the year. East and West Campus drives are held separately, but both contribute to many of the same charities. Among the organizations receiving contributions this year were the World University Service, the Foreign Student Fund, the American Friend's Service Committee, the Y.W.C.A. Edgemont project, and the American Field Service.

The East Campus drive, headed by Harriet Naviasky and held in the fall, reached its goal. The West Campus drive, held in the spring and headed by Bob Dix, approximated its $3,000 goal.

Social Standards, the link between administrative standards and student opinion, underwent a thorough evaluation and partial revision this fall in order to make it more representative of East Campus co-eds. Established in 1927 as an auxiliary of WSGA, the Committee's objective is the maintenance of high standards of behavior on East and the organization of an adequate social calendar for the school year.

Each year the committee publishes "Design for a Duchess," which primes the incoming co-eds on the "do's and don't's" of campus mores and dress, and also the indispensible Duke calendar, noting important dates and featuring pictures of university life. Social Standards gives the women a chance to violate the usual social custom and ask their favorite snowmen to the Co-Ed Ball, at which the Chanticleer Beauty Court is presented. The committee, this year under Gail Barksdale, sponsored a Christmas Carol Sing, a Christmas dinner, several Twilight Hour concerts, a WSGA-Sandals banquet, and the annual May Court.

Y. M. C. A.

The Y.M.C.A. is unique in that it is both a service and a "guidance" organization. In addition to performing valuable services, the "Y" seeks to help students realize a richer and more mature spiritual life. The group also strives to advance wholesome social relations in the University, not only between campuses, but also between student and instructor.

The scope of the "Y's" extra-curricular activity is vast; it conducts programs ranging from the Freshman Orientation Program to "Dad's Day," from handbooks and directories to campus tours. In addition, the "Y" provides ushers at University Chapel services, sponsors various seminars and symposiums, and contributes to the welfare of the Durham community with its Edgemont Center and Wright's Refuge projects.

For all its activities, the "Y" is able to draw on a very large membership—almost ninety per cent of West Campus students belong to the organization which was led this year by President Mike Schmidt.

The essence of the Y.W.C.A. of Duke's Woman's College is activity. Compromising a membership of over seventy-five per cent of East Campus and Hanes House, the Freshman "Y" and the "Big Y" are organized into committees of Social Service, Campus and Public Affairs, Race Relations, Interpretations, Worship, and Publicity. Working through these committees, the Y cabinet, and the dormitory fellowship leaders, the YWCA provides discussion and study on national and local topics of interest.

This year the YWCA in conjunction with the YMCA sponsored two seminars to New York between semesters, held campus discussions on the Symposium topic "Post Christian Man" both before and after the Symposium, and sponsored a program of seminars and social activities during orientation week. Also included in the "Y" program for 1961 were milkless meals and "chow trains" for the benefit of the Foreign Student Fund, a Parent-Daughter weekend, university devotionals, marriage seminars, lost and found sales, dormitory discussions, and service projects in near-by hospitals and refuges.

Religious Life

Basic to the second half of the University motto, "Eruditio and Religio", both the non-denominational Chapel services and the denominational service and study groups on campus stress a dynamic religious atmosphere integrated with scholastic life. The Religious Life Staff of the University is responsible for stimulating these ideals and includes as its members the Chaplain to the University, two Associate Directors of Religious Life, and the denominational chaplains. Inter-action among the denominational groups, co-ordinated by the Religious Council, is emphasized through service projects, discussion groups, and social activities. Exchange programs among the faiths in interracial and intercollegiate settings are sponsored by the Interfaith and Fellowship Committee and the Special Observances Committee.

Comprised of representatives from the various schools, denominations, and organizations found on campus, the University Religious Council is an excellent example of the student-faculty-administration type of organization in operation. The Council is concerned with all phases of religious life at Duke, and, under the supervision of the University Chaplain, it works through committees and individuals to present a completely inter-denominational program of religious service and experience.

The efforts of the Religious Council are centered primarily in the operation of the Edgemont Community Center in East Durham, to which many members of the Council and University devote a great deal of time and energy. Other projects include work at the Japan International Christian University and at the Union Theological Seminary in Manila. The Council also sponsors a scholarship program which brings Christians from foreign countries to Duke. Closer to home, the Council brings to the campus outstanding leaders in various fields such as theology, drama, and philosophy.

The numerous religious groups on campus perform an integral role in Duke's avowed goal to link religious life with academic pursuit. These denominational communities provide inspirational services as well as challenging discussions, varied programs of interest within and without the faith, and a chance to relax outside of the world of studies and social life. Many of these groups give plays, readings, and other dramatic presentations of both religious and non-religious nature. Outings are popular when the weather permits.

Since the opening of the Chapel, the Duke University Chapel Choir has served the campus by presenting beautiful and inspiring music which is an integral part of the Chapel worship service. Besides enriching the Sunday morning service, the Choir annually presents Handel's Messiah, now considered a traditional part of the Duke Christmas season. In addition, the Choir gives a special performance of another major oratorio in the spring.

The Choir has won much recognition in its excellent performances throughout the year. This is due in large measure to Dr. Paul Young, Choir director, who has a deep sensitivity for music which is reflected in the Choir's presentations. Its membership of 120, headed by Mark Edwards this year, is drawn from the outstanding members of the Men's and Women's Glee Clubs and Choruses.

BILL FRIDAY
Chancel Singers President

In the short time since 1958, when students from the Men's Double Quartet and the Women's Triple Trio joined together to form the Chancel Singers, this organization has developed into a high quality choral group.

Chancel Singers now provides an opportunity for the most experienced and qualified voices of other choral groups to sing difficult classical works composed for chamber choral groups. In this way, the organization aims to enrich the musical knowledge and appreciation of its members, and to increase their performing ability as they gain in sensitivity.

In addition to enhancing the chapel worship, the Chancel Singers presented a campus concert and gave other concerts in several cities of the surrounding area, including Edenton and Raleigh. This year's presentations included "Magnificat," a concert by Bach, and "Lieberslieder Walzer," a Brahms' composition.

RICHARD HEITZENRATER

Men's President

For the 75th year the Men's Glee Club of Duke University, formerly of Trinity College, has been providing the campusand other parts of the country-with the highest quality of choral music for men's voices. Now under the direction of Professor Paul Young, the club has attained national stature in its field.

The Glee Club began its programs in the fall with the Dad's Day Concert. To celebrate its 75th anniversary on campus, the group performed a special concert in March. The big event of the year was the club's annual tour taken during spring vacation. This year the group traveled to Florida, entertaining in Southern Pines, North Carolina, and Charleston, South Carolina en route. In May the club sang for the North Carolina's Bankers Association in Pinehurst.

To round out its repertoire, the club also presents antiphonal music, operatic selections, negro spirituals, and contemporary works of classical and semi-classical nature. The main selection sung on the tour was a twenty minute work by contemporary Randall Thompson entitled "Testament of Freedom."

Membership in the Glee Club is determined by auditions held early in the fall. This year the club consisted of approximately eighty voices led by President Dick Heitzenrater. Women's President

Every Tuesday and Thursday, East Campus was filled with the strains of both religious and secular music, originating, of course, from the Woman's College Glee Club. Rapidly gaining recognition for the sensitive yet dynamic artistry with which it perfoms, the group has progressed from the status of a training ground for the Chapel Choir to an independent group which often complements the Men's Glee Club in choral activities.

Visiting fathers were entertained during Dad's Day in October by a joint concert presented by the Woman's and Men's Glee Clubs. The February concert tour carried the members of the Woman's Glee Club to colleges and towns throughout North Carolina. The Club ended the successful 1960-61 season with another joint performance, this time with the freshmen Women's Chorus during Parent's Weekend on East Campus. The Spring Concert included folk songs, spirituals, sacred, and secular music. A spring cabin party and other social events with the MGC were also included in the year's activities.

Under the direction of Professor Paul Young and the leadership of President Betsy Nimitz, the Glee Club fulfilled its two-fold purpose of preparing and presenting choral music of established value in the Duke community and on tout, and presenting Duke's musical achievements to the public.

Duke University Concert Band

Well known throughout the entire state for its excellent music, the Duke University Concert Band was begun in 1923 under the direction of G. E. Leftwich. Within six years it had grown in membership from twenty to seventy, and its size has been held to seventy since then.

Rather than enlarge the group, Director Paul Bryan has concentrated on the quality performance. The Band gave two formal concerts, one in December and another in April, several lawn concerts, and made a spring tour through North Carolina.

The Duke Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Allan Bone, Chairman of the Music Department, offers the University community an opportunity to hear great orchestral works performed on a high artistic level. The orchestra affords students, faculty, and some professional musicians the chance to seriously interpret various works. The eighty members of the orchestra presented four concerts during the year. Marching Band

A cannon flash, a cloud of smoke, and suddenly the Duke Marching Band charges full force onto the football field. This band, one of the most energetic groups on campus, appears at all home football games and at some away games. This year the group went to College Park for the Maryland game and in January traveled to Dallas for the Cotton Bowl game.

The DUMB, under the direction of Dr. Paul Bryan, is an integral part of the excitement of Duke football games, offering encouragement to the players on the field and promoting school spirit in the stands. The sixty-five marching members, led by Drum Major Dutch Sloan, put on studentwritten half time shows, arranged this year by Don Rarrel. At the Cotton Bowl they participated in the pre-game parade and put on a twelve-formation half time show.

Duke Ambassadors

The Duke Ambassadors, founded by Sonny Burke in 1932, first played before a Duke audience in that same year. Since then, the Ambassadors have been entertaining Duke students at various dances, parties, and concerts. But their renown is hardly limited to the campus. In fact, the group has played throughout the Carolinas and Virginia, and has even toured the Panama Canal Zone, Bermuda, Iceland, and the Azores for the Department of Defense.

The band's singular quality, which greatly enhances the sound it produces, is its combination of true collegiate enthusiasm with a sense of the professional touch. The result is good music along the lines of the modern big band." This year, the Ambassadors' schedule called for a recording session. The result was the album "Bezlzebub's Big Band," which was released on a well-known label. Under the very able direction of Pat Williams, the group has worked hard in living up to the title accorded them by Les Brown, "the best college band in the land." Their ability to produce jazz of high quality has been recognized in such publications as Metronome and Down Beat.

The Publications Board is responsible for the publication, direction, and unification of policies governing the Archive, Chanticleer, Chronicle, Playbill, Peer, and Dukengineer. In addition, it regulates the commercial advertising found in each of them. Functioning not to censor but to maintain a high standard of journalism on the Duke campus, Pub Board hears reports from the various editors and business managers at its monthly meetings.

One of the Board's primary functions is that of electing students to fill the positions of editor and business manager of the publications and regulating their salaries. Selections are made in March and April, after the candidates who petition for these positions have been interviewed and carefully considered.

The voting body of the Board consists of four representatives from the faculty and administration, four elected members from each of Trinity and Woman's Colleges, two from the College of Engineering, and one from the School of Nursing. Headed by Chairman Dean Herbert Herring, the group also worked on a code of ethics for campus publications during the past year.

FRED CHAPPELL
Archive Editor

The Archive, "the South's oldest college literary magazine," stimulates student interest in the fine arts by publishing art and literary work by faculty and students. The Archive is published quarterly, and each issue includes a wide selection of poems, sketches, essays, and fiction.

The Archive sponsored a Public Reading in October and a Literary Arts Celebration in April. The Celebration this year centered around a discussion of student poetry in the Archive by Mr. Eberhart, a Poetry Consultant associated with the Library of Congress, whose Collected Poems was published this year. Mr. Eberhart read some of his own work, and Mr. Hiram Hayden, well-known author and editor, read from The Hands of Esau, a novel he is currently writing. Mr. Reynolds Price, of the Duke English Department and author of A Long and Happy Life, and Miss Jesse Rehder, author of Remembrance Way, were featured with Mr. Eberhart and Mr. Hayden in a panel discussion of student prose and fiction.

The Peer

One of the most distinctive features of Orientation week is the plea of enticing co-eds, "You do want to buy a subscription to the Peer. don't you?" Succumbing to feminine charms, one soon discovers that this is the campus feature magazine. Its greatest initial attraction, for West Campus anyway, is that the first of the four issues will contain pictures of some of the most attractive East Campus freshmen. On closer inspection, one finds that the Peer also includes cartoons and a variety of feature articles.

Enlarged this year, the Peer strikes a happy medium between the factual information of the Chronicle and the literary contents of the Archive. Editor Woody Halstead and his staff of photographers, humorists, cartoonists, and exaggerators kept their eyes open to the whimsical side of campus life and offered issues whose contents covered a wide variety of topics, ranging from satire to sex.

Like their Broadway counterparts, Page Auditorium audiences desire a program which serves an introduction to the particular presentation they are about to witness. This program should include biographical sketches, assorted program notes, and critical comments. The Playbill, Duke's youngest publication, offers such a program for the Artists' Series, presentations by the Duke Players, and Hoof 'n' Horn shows.

Trinity College freshmen and Engineering freshmen also benefit from the efforts of the Playbill staff members. Each year, shortly after the beginning of the second semester, West freshmen receive an IFC Handbook, published by the Playbill. This booklet contains valuable information about the various Greek chapters, including size, history, dues, and assessments. Although not a large organization, the Playbill serves the University in a unique and necessary fashion.

The 1961 Chanticleer

The CHANTICLEER, Duke's yearbook, attempts to present student life and give a complete resume of the year's activities on campus. The staff works to present the students and organizations, to record the various events of the year, and to capture the flavors of the particular year for the Duke community.

The staff of the yearbook is divided into the business and editorial staffs, each with its special responsibilities. Upperclassmen work in editor and sub-editor positions on both staffs. Freshman men and women have the opportunity to work and constitute most of the office staff which does some writing, typing, scheduling pictures, and working on the directory. Also freshman and upperclass photographers contribute to the book and have the opportunity to use the Chanticleer darktoom facilities. The year is filled with deadlines but the pace quickens second semester, and there's always the last minute rush getting the last thing in.

The Chronicle

The Duke Chronicle, now in its fifty-sixth year of publication, has consistently ranked among the finest college newspapers in the country. The Chronicle is first and foremost a student organization. As a result, the staff is under no pressure from the administration, nor is the campus journal subjected to any censorship. However since the Chronicle attempts to serve the entire University community, administration policies and faculty opinions are often found in print.

This year, the editor and business manager decided to reduce the number of editions per week from three to two. This measure was decided upon to facilitate an evaluation of the Chronicle, and the newspaper hopes to return to a tri-weekly schedule within two years.

Len Pardue ably wielded the blue pencil during his tenure as 1960-61 editor. The organization's finances were handled by Jim Lightbourn, who served as business manager. With these two men at the helm, the Chronicle carried a thorough coverage of campus activities and student interest in timely current affairs. The "Chronicle Forum" added extra spice as it proved to be the scene of many lively debates. The motto which the Chronicle masthead proudly bears, "The tower of campus thought and action," expresses the ideal of the Chronicle while it participates as a vital and integral part of campus life.

The Dukenginneer

The Dukengineer is a publication which refutes the all-too-common misconception that engineers communicate only in symbols and equations. Twenty-five to thirty engineering students display their literary abilities in this magazine which is issued in October, December, February, and April. The Dukengineer first appeared in 1940, while the engineers were still housed in "The Shack" (now Southgate). Since 1943 it has been supported by national advertisers and has developed from a small mimeographed publication into one read by a continuously increasing audience of engineers—students, faculty, and alumni—and laymen. It is now considered one of the nation's superior college engineering magazines.

Through independent research undertaken in writing the articles, the staff members acquire valuable experience in technical writing. The objectives of the magazine are to stimulate interest in engineering activities by keeping abreast of current developments in the field. The Dukengineer offers a variety of articles, including popular features, discussion of technical engineering subjects, and alumni news.

Student chapters of the American Society of Civil Engineers stimulate interest in this profession and begin to acquaint students with practical engineering problems and solutions. The Duke chapter of the ASCE meets each month to hear interesting speakers and see movies pertaining to civil engineering. During its three-day field trip to the Washington-Baltimore area this year the Society toured the Bethlehem Steel Plant, the David Taylor Model Basin, Fort Belvoir, and the Washington Urban-Redevelopment Commission, where the principles of civil engineering are in practical use. In the spring, attention was focused on the Engineers' Show, which the Society actively supported. To round out the year, a combination student-faculty softball game and picnic was held.

The Duke chapter of the ASCE has, since its founding in 1933 under the direction of Harold C. Byrd, been active in helping to promote the profession of civil engineering among engineering students. Ernest Taylor was chairman of the Society this year.

Formed to foster the dissemination of knowledge concerning the theory and practice of electrical engineering and other related fields of engineering and science, the AIEE-IRE assists in the professional development of the student and cooperates with the National AIEE and IRE and their local sections and subsections.

At Duke the AIEE-IRE has presented programs on electrical engineering research and development, on the Duke grad's view of his Engineering education, and on the opportunities for engineers in the military service. Members also made a field-trip to Kellog Switchboard Company; wrote technical papers in competition for a trip to the district contest in New Orleans; celebrated Engineers Week with a special program; and held a Senior Banquet in May.

The Duke chapter of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers provides its members with the opportunity to meet with fellow students having similar interests. Organized for a two fold purpose—to keep abreast of technical and theoretical advancements in the field, and to stimulate enthusiasm in student projects and encourage participation in them—the group had a full program of activities.

At the monthly meetings led by Chairman Britt Burns, the fifty members heard outstanding engineers speak on their professions. Industrial press seminars were held, and throughout the year, several short field trips were made to industrial operations. The annual student technical paper contest was held in March. During April, a delegation from Duke attended the ASME regional conference in Atlanta, Georgia. A departmental banquet in May rounded out the year for Duke's ASME.

Pre-Medical Society

The Duke Pre-Medical Society has, since 1938, provided an outlet for the interests of undergraduate students pursuing a career in medicine. Its activities are planned to bring the student in closer contact with the medical profession by helping him understand what a future as a physician would entail and also by advising him in his preparation as a premedical student.

Well-qualified men chosen from various medical fields spoke at the Society's weekly meetings this year. Members were also given an opportunity to observe operations involving major problems of medical technique being performed at Duke Hospital. The Caduccus, a monthly pamphlet reviewing different phases of the profession, was sent to all pre-med students. The Pre-Medical Advisory Council followed the same program initiated last year of extending scholastic aid to freshmen throughout both semesters. In March the Society put through a blood-typing and donor program for Duke undergraduates. Certificates of membership in the Order of Hippocrates, scholastic honorary within the Society, were presented at the annual Pre-Medical Society Banquet in late spring.

President Fred Reeser led the group this year assisted by officers Dave Hawkins, Marilyn Lewis, Jack Klie, and Jim Nash.

Bench and Bar

The Bench and Bar, founded on the Duke campus in 1935, was one of the first pre-law undergraduate organizations in this country. Many other college pre-law groups have patterned themselves after the Bench and Bar, a group composed primarily of undergraduate men interested in making a career in the law. It was organized not to develop lawyers but to be a cooperative center for intelligent legal thought and to give undergraduates a better insight into the study of the law and the legal profession.

This year the society's fifty members heard speakers on various branches of the law, featuring law school professors and practicing lawyers, and held discussion groups with law school students. They also saw legal films with an explanation of the points of law and participated in a mock trial.

This year J. Francis Paschal of the Law School served as Advisor to the group, and Thomas E. Senf served as President.

The Duke chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, a national service fraternity, is a relatively new organization on campus. Since its establishment in 1955, the Duke group has been consistently active in promoting its aim of service to the community as a whole.

As the only service organization, per se, at Duke, this fraternity met once a week to plan the programs which it sponsored during the year. The group did maintenance work at the Child Guidance Center, prepared Christmas baskets for charity, sponsored a contest for CARE, and held a rummage sale in the spring. Led by Talcott Avera as Secretary-Treasurer and Dave Allen as President, Alpha Phi Omega this year successfully furthered its aim of service through these various projects.

The history of the debate team at Duke began in the early days of the University, first being sponsored by the Literary Societies and later set up as a separate organization. The present era of debate was initiated buken Professor Joseph C. Weatherby was brought to Duke to head forensic activity. Professor Weatherby guides the team in its objective of giving interested students the opportunity to develop logical thinking and effective speaking habits through participation in intercollegiate debate. Fifteen debate tournaments and 175 intercollegiate debates were on the agenda for the 40 member squad this year.

Elections Board

The Elections Board was formed to conduct freshman and Men's Student Government Association elections. In addition, this body is responsible for the standardization of the rules governing the annual elections. This October the Board administered the election of the freshman class officers and two freshman senators.

The two political parties on campus—the Campus Party, this year under Charlie Waters, and the Union Party, headed by Carroll Starling—come under the jurisdiction of Elections Board. These two organizations operate solely for the selection of student government officers, providing the machinery by which campus leaders are nominated for offices. Functioning actively in the spring, before and during the campaigns, the parties usually convene separately for two sessions. At any other time, the party officers comprise the only working membership.

Joel Arrington, as 1960-61 Chairman of Elections Board, supervised the elections in which nominees of the Campus Party and those of the Union Party competed for student government offices under the newly standardized election rules.

Foreign students attending Duke University receive a special welcome from members of the International Club whose main function is to encourage friendship and understanding among foreign and native students. In promoting this goal, the organization sponsors cabin parties, dinners, cultural exchanges, and other formal and infor-

Independent Dormitory Council

CHARLIE WATERS
President; IDC

The Independent Dormitory Council was founded in 1956 to insure an efficient, representative form of student government for the residents of the independent dormitories. In addition, the Council serves as a mouthpiece through which the independents may voice their opinions with regard to timely campus issues. Finally, the Council's activities include the sponsorship of various social and athletic functions, including a spirited intramural program and several cabin parties and open houses.

The I.D.C., an integral part of the M.S.G.A., conducts its affairs in the same manner that the I.F.C. and the Freshmen House Councils operate. The Council is empowered to suggest improvements which will benefit Few residents and the University at large. It also calls attention to any grievances which the independent students may have. Headed this year by Charlie Waters, the I.D.C. convened on alternate Thursday evenings. These meetings were attended by one representative from each floor of the independent dormitories. In its five years of operation, the I.D.C. has made rapid progress in integrating the men it represents into the mainstream of campus life.

Shoe N' Slipper Club

The Shoe 'n' Slipper Club organizes Duke's two big weekends, one each semester, complete with big name bands and entertainment. Established in 1949 to take the place of IFC-sponsored dance weekends, the club incorporated spring dance week-end into Joe College in 1952.

Duke alum Les Brown and His Band of Renown played for the afternoon concert and the informal dance which are part of the November Shoe 'n' Slipper week-end. The Glenn Miller Orchestra with Ray McKinley directing provided music for the formal dance.

This year the Joe College week-end was changed somewhat from previous years by the decision to eliminate the poorly attended Saturday night formal dance. The parade of sorority and fraternity floats, following a "Joe College in Legendland" theme, was held on Friday afternoon. Count Bassie played for the Friday night informal dance. Saturday afternoon, the crowd moved onto blankets on the West Quad to enjoy the lawn concert presented by the Brothers Four. With the lawn concert as the highlight of the year, the Shoe 'n' Slipper Club ended another very successful season.

Pep Board

Throughout the year, Duke students witnessed tangible signs of Blue Devil spirit—pep rallies, propaganda posters, decorated goal posts, and card tricks, to name only a few. These did not just happen but were the products of a hard working Pep Board, headed by Pete Lovell and Marilie Fifer.

It was this organizaton that wall-papered the campus with slogans like "Sink Navy" and "Clobber Clemson" and sent good luck telegrams to the team. West's main quad was the scene of the Powder Puff Bowl, which optimistically and correctly predicted the outcome of the Navy game. Freshman girls costumed as midshipmen were trounced by the upperclass coeds representing Duke. In the spring, Pep Board held the preliminary election of cheerleaders and the Blue Devil for the 1961-62 year.

This year the cheerleaders have been our football and basketball teams' most faithful, enthusiastic supporters. Headed by Frank Eubank, the squad is composed of five coeds from East Campus and five West students. This year they travelled to all the away football games during the fall (except U.C.L.A.), including Dallas, Ann Arbor, Columbia, and College Park. In the winter they attended all the basketball games in the state.

In the spring, soon after spring vacation, fifty to seventy girls practiced cheers for three weeks, in order to try out before the Selections Board. This board is comprised of the retiring cheerleaders, the Chairmen of Pep Board, and the captains of the football and basketball teams. They chose ten finalists who then tried out in a WSGA assembly, where they were elected finally by the women students. Any boys who wish to do so may remain on the squad from the previous year without being re-elected. The rest are elected by the men's student body.

Celebrating its twenty-fifth anniversary this year, Hoof 'n' Horn is not only one of the oldest campus organizations, but also the oldest original musical comedy organization in the South. The Club's policy, as originally set forth, called for musical comedies written, directed, produced, and performed by Duke Students. This general policy was faithfully upheld until 1952, when Anything Goes, written by a professional, was performed. This year as well, the club presented a "professional" show, The Boy Friend, by Sandy Wilson. This suspension of club policy was enacted so as to receive student interest. Next year, Hoof 'n' Horn plans to return to producing student works. Besides the annual show during Joe College Weekend, the club also participates in the Homecoming Show and other musical activities.

A student who has worked on one show is considered a full-fledged member of Hoof 'n' Horn. Although they are amateur thespians, the members of this group won wide acclaim for their efforts. Hoof 'n' Horn was led this year by President Mary Ann Berry and Vice-President Dave Nee.

Duke Players, offering the Duke community cultural entertainment in the form of the finest theatrical presentations, was organized on the two campuses over twenty-eight years ago. Each fall its members have just enough time to unpack before the Players launch into feverish activity in an attempt to begin their season before the onslaught of hour tests. This year the Players gave a delightful performance of Born Yesterday, the near professional quality of which was acclaimed by the audiences; Branson lent the intimacy needed for a well executed performance of Miller's drama, "The Crucible"; and Bernard Shaw's famous "Saint Joan" was the triumphant spring success. In their "spare" time, the Players gave readings and student-directed one-act plays in Branson.

This year Earl McCarrol led the technical and acting members in this otherwise casual organization—no weekly meetings, no dues, but a few open-houses with entertainment that would make Jack Benny laugh. Membership is attained and maintained by working fifty hours during the season, and a member of good standing may be exalted to a position on the Executive Council.

The group definitely fulfills the campus need for fine dramatic entertainment; and members gain valuable experience through working with set design, lighting, costumes, props, make-up, and, of course, acting.

The Woman's Recreation Association, whose membership is made up of the entire student body of the Woman's College and the School of Nursing, is organized to offer varied recreational opportunities for each coed. Cooperating with the Woman's Physical Education Department, the group sponsors the intramural program on East Campus. It also artanges for the sports day and picnic for freshmen during Orientation Week.

The W.R.A. has many Co-Rec Open Houses in the gym on Friday nights, at which time students can take part in special co-rec activities or make use of the equipment and swimming pool. The highlight of the year is the Co-Rec Carnival held in the spring. At this time fraternities and dorms are paired for competition in relays, sports events, and carnival games.

Special interest groups under the auspices of W.R.A. are Pegasus, Nereidian, Terpsichorean, and Tennis Club which offer special chances for enjoyment of horseback riding, synchronized swimming, modern dance, and tennis.

The activities of W.R.A. are planned and carried out by the W.R.A. Board. This group consists of the four executive officers, a chairman of each sport, two representatives from each dorm, a social chairman, and other committee chairmen. This governing Board has many meetings, picnics, and retreats to plan and discuss the program of W.R.A.

Nereidian

A spring water show open without charge to the public is the highlight of the year's activities for the members of the Nereidian Club. These girls meet weekly throughout the year for the combined purpose of recreation and the improvement of both group and individual syncronized swimming skills, through regular practice and a sharing of individual knowledge. All those interested in participating in Nereidian are given the opportunity to try out in both the fall and spring semesters. This year the group numbered about sixty girls, working together under President Sandy Matter.

Early in the year plans are begun for the spring show. After working out the central theme and general details, the girls begin concentrated practice, breaking into smaller groups to work on each part of the show. Attention is paid to the selection of music and appropriate and colorful costumes. The girls are assisted in the perfection of their performances and organization of the show by the Physical Education Department. Their enthusiasm for swimming and competence in the water pay high dividends both to the group and to the audience which benefit from the two performances of their show. This year the Nereidians presented "Holiday Festival," each number featuring the celebration of an annual holiday.

In an effort to promote an active interest in modern dance, members of Terpsichorean presented two shows this year, one in December and one in April. The Christmas program, in cooperation with the campus Drama and Music Departments, was an attempt to demonstrate through modern dance the moods of Christmas-"watching," "giving," and "worship." Members of the group also gave performaces in Raleigh.

The techniques of modern dance and individual skills are given attention in the weekly practice meetings of the girls and in such special sessions as classes with professional modern dancers visiting the campus. This year the group was fortunate enough to have an opportunity to meet with both Cunningham and Limon. Julie Sutherland served as an able and talented Terpsichorean president this year. Anyone interested in modern dance and with enthusiasm for working with Terpsichorean may try out, whether or not she has had previous experience.

Membership in Pegasus, an auxiliary organization of the Women's Recreation Association, provides an opportunity for horseback riding enthusiasts to enjoy this sport together. After tryouts, held early in the spring, Pegasus chooses members on the basis of excellence in equestrian skills. Any interested and capable student from East Campus or Hanes House is eligible for membership.

This year's president, Barbara Woodard, headed an active program which included weekly rides on Wednesday and Friday afternoons at Betty L. Brunson's Pine Knoll Stables. Observation of riding classes, trips to horseshows, and auctions held in the Durham area kept Pegasus members busy. The annual Duke University Horse Show, sponsored by the club for the general public, was the highlight of the year's activities. Pegasus members, students taking horseback riding in physical education classes, and other interested riders participated in the show, which was followed by the awarding of two trophies for excellence in riding.

The Town Men's Club, composed of Duke Students from the Durham area, has enjoyed a brief but successful history on campus. The Club's specific aims are to provide a social outlet for its members and to keep abreast of campus activities. This latter purpose is most important, for it facilitates integration of local students into the mainstream of campus life.

With a total membership of forty students, the Club's bi-weekly meetings were conducted by President Charles Gibson. At these meetings, club functions such as cabin parties, cookouts, banquets, and dances, were planned. In addition, the club was actively represented in Duke's intramural program. A final feature of this organization was its adoption of a service project, whereby its members volunteered a checking service in Page Auditorium.

The principle function of the Engineer's Radio Association is to operate a "ham" radio station. Under the direct supervision of the School of Engineering, the E.R.A. has been cited as one of the outstanding amateur stations in the area. The club has received many awards for its service to the community in times of disaster or emergency.

The E.R.A. provides engineering students with the opportunity to gain practical experience in radio-electronics. In addition, the individual may work toward acquiring a federal license while a club member. This year, the E.R.A., headed by Skip Sander, conducted classes in Morse Code for all students interested in the "ham" radio field.

Radio Council

When the Duke Broadcasting System was established in 1948, the Radio Council was created as a means of directing the ultimate aims of the station. The Council serves WDBS in an advisory capacity, and is the station's final governing body. Student representatives from East and West campus and Hanes House, three faculty advisors, the Dean of Men, the Dean of Women, and the five station managers are the acting members of the Radio Council. The student chairmanship was held this year by T. O. Allen.

From the Council come formulations of general policy, as well as decisions on specific matters. Such issues as the approval of the budget and extra expenditures fall under its auspices. The immediate problems and policies of the station are the responsibility of the station managers, who, significantly, are elected by the Radio Council.

WDBS personnel and the members of Radio Council brought this year to a close with the annual banquet in May. At this time, awards were presented for outstanding service and ability shown throughout the year.

Operating each day of the school year, WDBS offers listeners of the immediate area a wide variety of high quality programming. Entertainment is directed toward the college level listener, many shows being devoted exclusively to the presentation of uninterrupted classical music.

The student disc jockeys, newscasters, and technicians present special programs of jazz, broadway musical scores, and the better popular music. They also broadcast excellent up-to-the-minute news coverage and many Duke athletic events. This year also saw the initiation of a weekly show from Annamaria's, which featured records, live guitar music, and much fun.

This year WDBS made a positive effort to raise its standards and quality of broadcasting by presenting a quite varied format, featuring more high calibre programs. In its twelve years of operation this organization has been outstanding in its service to the Duke area.

AFROTC

Colonel Duncan congratulates Cadets Halstead, Shephard, and Engleby on their distinguished Cadet Awards.

A MARS radio station is maintained by the unit.

The Air Force unit includes a photo lab group.

Through a plan of instruction at civilian educational institutions, the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps program prepares selected students to help fulfill the officer needs of the United States Air Forces both in the regular and reserve components. The program at Duke consists of two years in basic and two years in advanced training.

Organized in 1949, the AFROTC here at Duke is today a select, compact unit of 100 cadets producing officers for the U.S. Air Force. The cadet corps is organized and managed by the cadets themselves as they advance from cadet airmen to cadet officers concurrently with their progression from freshmen to senior status. A revision of the AFROTC academic program was initiated in the 1960-1961 school year; and the Air Force now accepts certain other university courses in lieu of some formerly required AFROTC subjects.

To stimulate interest in the Air Force ROTC program, several extra-curricular activities are sponsored by the Air Force and managed by the cadets. Any cadet who is experienced and interested may become a member of the Precision Drill Team and the Drum and Bugle Corps. The Rifle Team, also open to any cadet, meets teams from other universities in scheduled matches. Duke is fortunate in having one of the few MARS amateur radio stations in the United States. Available to all students, MARS is the only means by which ham radio operators can continue their hobby at Duke. The cadet may also participate in the publication of the Contact, the corps newspaper. The cadet corps is proud of its chapter of the Arnold Air Society, the national AFROTC honorary fraternity. All cadets are members of the Duke Air Force Club which sponsors parties, picnics, and the highlight of their social season, the Military Ball.

The group is presented to the Group Commander.

Duke joins with 52 other leading universities throughout the country in cooperating with the Department of the Navy in training future officers for the Navy and the Marine Corps. The Department of Naval Science with the Commanding Officer, NROTC Unit, serving as Chairman, offers a four-year course in Naval Science leading to commission as Ensign in the Navy or Second Lieutenant in the Marine Corps.

The Duke NROTC Unit has a permanent staff of seven Navy and Marine officers and six senior enlisted men. The students selected for this program are a part of the Midshipman Regiment and attend a three-hour academic course in Naval Science each semester.

All midshipmen attend at least one summer cruise with the active Fleet, normally between their junior and senior years. Summer cruises are designed to orient the prospective officer in the many facets of the combatant Navy's balanced fleet and to teach practical application of the principles of Naval Science learned in the classroom during the academic year. Most Duke midshipmen embark in ships of the Atlantic Fleet for summer cruise. In lieu of shipboard cruises, prospective Marine officers go to Quantico, Virginia for summer training.

Collateral activities of the Duke NROTC Unit include the Band, Drill Team, Rifle Team and the Unit newspaper, the Dolphin. In addition, the midshipmen of the NROTC and the cadets of the AFROTC combine to sponsor the annual Military Ball, an event of the Spring social calendar.

Both leadership training and technical skills are woven into the fabric of the Naval Science curriculum to the end that the NROTC, as an integral part of the University, contributes to the overall academic program while preparing students to eventually assume and discharge effectively their responsibilities as officers of the U. S. Navy and U. S. Marine Corps.

Marine students get practical training in dealing with field problems in Marine Science classes.

Marine students from Duke and Carolina participated jointly in a field trip to Camp Lejune Marine Base.

Semper Fidelis

The history of Semper Fidelis began in 1952, the year when the organization was established by Marine students of Duke and the University of North Carolina. Later chartered under the University of North Carolina, Duke's Beta Chapter is one of more than fifty such groups located at colleges and universities all over the United States. It is composed of officers, reserve members, former Marines, and students who plan a future career in the Marine Corps. The primary concern of Semper Fidelis is the preparation of students for Marine commissions. It also seeks to promote the interests and ideals of the Marine Corps among the students and faculty of the University community.

Providing leadership and guidance for Semper Fidelis are Midshipman Captain Commandant Sykes, and faculty advisor Major H. L. Wilderson.

Social activities for the year included the traditional Marine Corps Birthday Ball fall semester and a barbecue held during the spring. Many members also participated in a field trip to the Marine Corps Base at Camp Lejeune, North Carolina, and the Marine Corps Air Station at Cherry Point.

Fall session blew in and Alpha Chi's were off to Carr for another Rush session, happy to be together again 'mid joyous confusion of reunions and enthusiasm over new pledges. A celebration followed at Schrafft's Country Inn with the Pledge Banquet—the year was off to a wonderful start!

November brought relaxation, fellowship, cards, music, and a yummy spaghetti supper—all part of the Fall Retreat—a real relief from brain strain of studies and tests. Soon after came a sparkling evening at the Elks Club, honoring the new pledges with a beautiful dance. Displaying their vivid imagination and ingenuity, the pledges entertained the actives with a hilarious Halloween party. And soon the semester calendar ended with a Christmas party at the CP Hospital and a pizza feast afterwards.

January meant time out for concentration on exams, but February brought the joy of initiation—new sisters to share the Alpha Chi spirit—and the whirl of spring events. Peanut Pal day . . . brunch for parents on their weekend . . . scholarship banquet . . . spring picnics and retreat . . . big plans and much fun on the Joe College $AX\Omega$ float . . . song fest . . . and, to close out the year, a banquet in honor of the seniors. So went the year for $AX\Omega$ —from first to last a real joy in sharing the sisterhood of Alpha Chi sorority life.

Rush, rush, rush! The Omicron Pi's, happy to be back at school for another year of sisterhood, rushed in twenty lovely pledges. After a busy summer of "beaching," travel abroad, pinnings, engagements, and jobs, we were ready for 1960-61...

Fall and football season crowned our own Annie Lou as Homecoming Oueen with Peaches in the Court. Not to be forgotten are the pledge parties and banquet-afternoons of fun with the children at the CP Hospital-the Hawaiian Party with the Pi Phi's-the busy Pi's in campus activities. Afternoons in the Durham information booths caught us up in the excitement of the presidential election. Guest speakers, "local" entertainment, pizzas and cubans highlighted our meetings. December brought CHAN-TICLEER Court beauties and Christmas parties and projects. The New Year brought exams with our Phi Betes holding the fort. And in February we celebrated the Fiftieth Anniversary of Duke Omicrons as alums from all over the U. S. returned for a weekend reunion of teas, banquets, and pledging. St. Valentine danced and dined into our hearts twenty new sisters at our pledge dance.

Sunshine and spring beamed as we participated in Greek Week and the Fratternity-Sorority Sing. Then came elections, a breakfast for our parents, and we built our float for Joe College. The Senior Banquet and exams drew the year to a close. We gathered again at the beach for a week, and then sadly bid our Senior sisters good-bye.

1960-61 was a year of activities and fun for the AEPhi's. After a successful rush, six pledges were added to the group. Then came winning the Pan-Hel scholarship cup—and the prize for the best sorority homecoming display! For Christmas we prepared a basket for a needy family and celebrated the holiday festivities with a party in the chapter room. Our social service project was teaching Sunday school—and wasn't it hard getting up early on Sunday morning!

The big event of the year was, naturally, the pledge dance, this year held jointly with the Tri-Delts. But there were also parties with fraternities at State and Carolina, speakers at our meetings, ice skating and bowling parties, and get-togethers where pizza reigned supreme! Spring was busy with Joe College—and the float. We also found time for more parties, more fun—and even studies.

The AEPhi's were also busy with other activities. Miriam was an FAC, Harriet was chairman of Campus Chest, Mal was secretary of Duke Players, Nedra was a Sandal, and Sheila helped cheer the Duke teams to victory. In addition, the AEPhi's did their share in the Y, Pan-Hel, NSA, Hoof 'n Horn, and SSL.

It was hard saying good-bye at the end of the year—but those who will be back next year are looking forward to another wonderful year of friendship in Alpha Epsilon Phi.

Bugg's Island welcomed the Alpha Phi's back from summer with a retreat where we heard about the National Convention in Miami, water skiied, (oops!) and ate hot dogs. Back again at Dook, led by Rush Chairman Connie, we teamed up for a week of surprise-filled parties, like the night we featured candlelight as Carr's electricity conked out.

To celebrate a successful rush, pledges and big sisters munched through Festa Room pizzas. Inspired by their new Alpha Phi lavaliers, the pledges returned with a big sister surprise party, then lured other Duke pledges to an underground beatnik pad for an evening. Demonstrating achievement in other directions, the Phi's walked away with Pan-Hel's Most Improved Scholarship trophy. We had Alpha Phi's active in dorm offices, campus offices and committees, and honoraries.

Caroling at the VA Hospital, followed by the annual Christmas party, dancing at Aycock's Cabin. and sponsoring a joint party with N.C. State Sigma Pi's for underprivileged children launched the Christmas season. A gala dinner-dance, initiation, the Fraternity-Sorority Sing, Joe College and Joe's float, District Convention, and an after-exams trip to Myrtle Beach rounded out the year of fun, friendship, and activity with Alpha Phi.

When twenty members of one sorority returned for Freshman Week, 'twern't dirty rush: 'twas just the Tri-Delts, demonstrating again that a "pansy" makes a whale of a wheel! Hannibal crossed the Alps; Deltas crossed the quad with THEIR White Elephants for the annual campus scholarship. And we again "adopted" and visited "grandparents" at the Methodist Retirement Home, becoming their "Peanuts."

But no dull boys here, milady: A "zappy" rush gave way to the Big-Li'l Sister fling at the Rat. After Founders' Day "Schraffting" with the Carolina Deltas, we rang in the new year from the Kappa Sig House at Carolina. We could have pledge-danced all night—and did, Holiday Inn-wise. A surprise breakfast bacchanal in the Ark and the Initiation Banquet preceded the seniors' Auld Lang Syne Rat party; and who can forget that DDD-lirious dinner meeting at which the Betas provided the "culture"? Continuing the year in high form we sang in the Fraternity-Sorority Sing, danced through Joe College, sunned at the beach, and ended the year, weeping into our Pansy Breakfasts.

So, let them all sigh, "Wouldn't It Be Loverly?"

The year began for the D. G.'s with a whirl of rush parties. We boarded the good ship Delta Gamma, switched to Sleepy-Time Land, and spent an evening in Hawaii via the Red Room. We welcomed a wonderful pledge class with a pizza party.

After the excitement of rush our President Patty told us of the ideas from our national convention in Colorado where we received awards for scholarship. Honors went to us again as we placed third in the Homecoming Display Contest.

The Christmas spirit was set aglow by working together on stuffed animals for the children in Duke Hospital. We gathered together in the Festa Room for a holiday dinner. After Christmas and exams, knees were bruised and fingers froze while we ice skated together. The height of spring activity was the pledge dinner-dance at Schrafft's Country Inn. There were bouquets of long-stemmed pink roses, floor length white formals, happy faces, and candlelight. Then Inspiration Week and initiation when we welcomed new sisters to help with the Fraternity-Sorority Sing.

In April we were hostesses for the Province Conference. Representatives, alums, and officers poured in to spend three exciting days with us. Suddenly Joe College was here and we spent long hours working on our float. At the Schior Banquet we paid a fond farewell to our graduating sisters and left Duke to swim and play at Myrtle Beach.

"When the kite goes up, and the stars come out, Thetas gather 'round . . ." for another terrific year under President Susie G. The Thetas again made their home in 205 Carr Building and began activity with rush, which, led by Royce and Barbie B. brought a group of super-plus pledges to Beta Rho. A Broadway Party planned by Brenda P. high-lighted the rush season, in addition to the traditional Twin Stars.

With the pledge program in the hands of Marge, the chapter moved into fall activity. Second place in the Homecoming Poster Contest rewarded the hard work of actives and pledges. Brenda W. saw to it that we had gala parties, Caryl B. that there were stimulating educational programs and Judy F. philanthropic projects to round out the first term. December brought us a CHANTICLEER queen—Delia—and fun Christmas parties.

Spring semester brought new excitements—initiation, the Triad, a new room in Faculty Apartments, a visit from several Randolph-Macon Thetas, a weekend retreat, Kite Flying Day. The pledges held a spring fashion show for the benefit of the Panhellenic Scholarship Fund. The chapter entered the Greek Sing, directed by Chotsey, and the Joe College float competition. The traditional beach week-end closed the '60-'61 Theta year.

Thetas also contributed much to campus life and we will remember this year as a rewarding one—in fact, "... terrific! Amazing! Exo-otic! Worth praising!..."

With black knees, big smiles, and a panic of mass confusion, Kappa Delta plunged into the torrent of East Campus rush, coming up victoriously with twenty new members to keep life interesting. Soon after rounding up the pledges, we pinned on our sheriffs' badges and trotted out to the Ranch House for a Founder's Day dinner. Homecoming found us hunting our 6' x 8' poster which managed to disappear mysteriously, and after recovering it, carting it in the 9:20 rush down Myrtle Drive on top of an MG.

The usual Christmas round of parties included caroling on West in the rain, gift wrapping parties with the Sigma Chi's, and a party at the Veteran's Hospital with the Phi Kaps. We saved uncooked beans from the Union for a month or so to fill up the stuffed animals that we sent to the Crippled Children in Richmond, Virginia.

With the diamond pin gleaming ahead, pledges took time out from pledge swaps to slave over Bake Sales and other pledge projects. A head-spinning February brought with it pledge banquets, White Rose Week, the Pledge Dance, and long awaited initiation. Our annual "steak and beans dinner" separated the sheep from the goat gradewise. Spring brought Joe College, and summer, our beach weekend after a busy year of work and play as a group had brought us much closer to each other as individuals.

Final stitches were sewn in kilts and sarongs as "the girls dressed in blue" began the 1960-1961 year under the enthusiastic leadership of Ann McNamara. Numerous Sandals, FAC's, and house officers helped orient the freshmen and then, between football games and initial assignments, came rush. The result was a wonderful pledge class for the Delta Beta Kappas, thanks to Jean and Joanie.

As the leaves began to fall, the calendar was quickly filled with activities for the holiday season-a halloween party with the A. E. Phi's, a Thanksgiving get-together with the ATO's for the Edgemont children, and, to the surprise and delight of the actives, a Christmas party given by the pledges. Evenings were spent making Christmas cards and stockings for children with Cystic Fibrosis and caroling at retirement homes.

In January books were laid aside for a moment as the Kappas joined the Thetas in a "come-as-you-arenot" cabin party; in February blue and blue pledge pins were replaced by golden keys as initiation highlighted inspiration week for the pledges.

Along with spring fever, the early signs of spring brought the Golden Triad, Florida vacations, the Fraternity-Sorority sing, and, of course, Joe College. And then all too soon, the final trip to Myrtle Beach, the good-bys to seniors, and the closing of another active and memorable year.

This was "think pink" year for Phi Mu. To start the year off on the appropriate color note, we had a "Think Pink" party the first night we were back at school. Our rose colored glasses made us see the world in that Phi Mu rose.

Our Rush parties were a sampling of that rose hue all over the world. As a result of this travel, Gamma Epsilon got some truly great pledges, who were entertained the next week with a pizza party, a coffee, and a picnic supper at the home of an alum.

We worked hard on Social Service this year. Phi Mu headed the collection of the Thanksgiving baskets for the Panhellenic project, and we provided a Christmas for a family here in Durham. Our special project was helping with a Girl Scout Troop: we worked on special phases of the Girl Scout program at which we have had some experience. The Scouts had a Thanksgiving Party for us, and we gave a Christmas Party for them.

In the Spring came the Carnation Ball dinnerdance at which we presented our Pledge Class and awarded the loving cups for the outstanding pledges. Founder's Day was celebrated by Initiation and a coffee. The election of next year's officers was followed by an Officers' Planning Retreat. Programs on the application of cosmetics and how to weat hats, prepared us for a beautiful Spring, and suddenly it was time to tell our departing seniors to "think pink" as alums.

Soon after the beginning of school in September, Zetas found themselves busy with preparations for rush, including a retreat at Umstead State Park. As rush came, and finally went, our enthusiastic pledge class joined us in plans for a semester of fun, work, and projects.

Fall drizzled into winter and the presidential election and visits from national officers kept us busy. The time before Christmas was spent caroling on West with the Pi Beta Phi's and the Kappa Delta's, joining the Pi Kappa Phi's for a Christmas party for children from Wright's Refuge, and planning dorm and chapter parties. In the all too brief period between Christmas and exams, we honored our January graduates at a dinner.

When Spring finally appeared we established a "home" in Faculty Apartments with the Thetas. Meanwhile it was a busy year for Zeta members active in various campus activities. The Pledge Dance in February was followed by the eagerly-awaited day of initiation as we welcomed our new sisters and prepared for the events of the last few months of the year—the Fraternity-Sorority Sing, Joe College, Senior Banquet, and the annual house party at Myrtle Beach following exams.

"Perse's" memorial pledging, the return of Bino's legacy, "Buzzard's" average making and our prerush episode in Kilgo all marked the beginning of an eventful and prosperous year for the Taus.

Fall found Tau tradition repeating itself with pregame shindigs, Piney Mount trains, and many hours spent over the French books. The ATO's made Chuck and Mary honorary members, and their Tarheel Club was the sight of numerous Tau events including the Christmas Party featuring Lascivious Clavton III.

The Fall Semester also had its serious side with the Kappa's and the Tau's brightening up Christmas for the Edgemont Kids and the names of nineteen brothers donning the "Dean's Team". House "C" also took an active part in the Y-Fac program, I.F.C., and M.S.G.A. ATO was also active on the athletic field with "Yogi," John and Jack outstanding on the gridiron and Tony's hot foot pouring the soccer goals in for the Devils. Falcon's engagement and Bill's pinning Chotsey surprised none.

Spring started with hordes of free beer at Bob and Bill's superb rush parties and was climaxed by the cruise of the "Sea-Dogs" at Dum's hometown, Beach Weekend, Joe College, and those afternoons on top of the press-box. Graduation brought to a close a banner year under the leadership of Francis the Great.

The Beta sports car club reconvened for its annual nine month's rally, proving again that milk and gas do mix.

Finding ourselves atop the social pile again, we blasted off with the "missile", floated thru cabin party season, then found ourselves face to face with Homecoming. Despite our magnificent display, for some strange reason we won no trophy. Regrouping forces, we joined the Pi Phi's in a Christmas party for the children from Wright's Refuge and Edgemont, the brothers having a great time with the toys. The party reached a thundering peak when "Santa" Dave Law unfortunately dropped his beard. Maurice Williams and the Zodiacs continued Beta's social attack, effectively snowing those dewey eved visions from East.

Suddenly rush reared its ugly head, and we found ourselves in the midst of a two week, studyless, sleep-less, revolving party with the Frosh chain gang. Under the superb leadership of Rush Chairmen Heath Boyer and Lee Sammons, Beta compiled the best pledge class at Duke.

Thank God for spring, spring being Beta's natural element and specialty. Lauderdale, rock parties, and the notorious Beta-KA softball game, along with the slightly less notorious pledge formal, all point to an unexcelled spring semester. Joe College and our annual trek to Stanko's at Myrtle Beach for Beach Weekend rounded out a most colorful year. (We love you, Mother Blue, and you too, Sally.)

The past year at the Delta Sig section started off with the redecoration of the chapter room, the installation of the new electric rug christened with that unbelievable Homecoming party. We enjoyed the usual pre-game barbecues, and surprised ourselves with an astounding intramural football season . . . only one setback! With Thanksgiving came the exodus to D.C., Dollison getting engaged, and the Green Giant pinning his mate. In December, Whitsett felt the load too great, and resigned the presidency. The little senator from Arkansas took the helm, and we were off again. January brought the successful Carnation Ball in Raleigh, with Charlotte Cherry as the 15 Dream Girl. Dr. Sullivan, our new faculty advisor, was initiated into the Bond of Sphinx. Then came exams . . .

Between semesters the Card Room was redecorated, through the efforts of Adams, Summers, and the local beer distributors. Rush came complete with Dula's closet cases. Engstrom got tired of rushees who drink, smoke, and have tuxes, and rushed Bonnie to Reidsville to get hitched. March brought the Pledge Ball at the Jack Tar, and Spring Vacation. We finished the semester with another great Joe College, and beach weekend at Myrtle. These were the high points, and they won't be forgotten.

There were the little things, just as unforgettable . . . Huffman and Young getting their Bachelors of Sloth . . Ebere's Air Force Bombing School . . the revival of the Frisbee League . . . Gallagher's attempts to buy the Goat Barn . . . Kuhn's Monday night prayer meetings . . Big George's machine . . . BooBoo's 3.8 booboo . . . The brothers of Kappa Alpha returned from their summer exploits looking forward to a great yearand it was just that! Our Saturday heroes were led through a fine season climaxed by a Cotton Bowl victory by KA's Browning, Allie, Moorman and Bumgarner. The fall was a blast: 13 combo parties-highlighted by "Cubbus," the Rhythm-Makers, the Zodiacs, and the Hot Nuts; occasional visits by a few of us to the "farm"; Wallace's surprise party and the "appropriate" gifts; and our outstanding homecoming display. It was a dry year. As compensation we developed an interest in "Old Dutch" culture, and our midnight vocal lessons from the Tops debs were most enlightening. Late in February there was a renaissance of religious zeal after the big thunder and church attendance rose-the only holdouts being "Insect" and "Cubbus." Our fall pledge class was headed by such "bodies" as Wallace and "F.R." In the spring the brothers were bolstered by the return of Luther and "Rhino", and the installation of toilet facilities in the chapter room. Again we got a fine pledge class to uphold the traditions of Kappa Alpha and Robert E. Lee. Many of us journeyed to the Fort for spring vacation and returned to go to a "chaste" Old South which was held in Richmond during the centennial of the Civil War. Then we returned and classes were only incidental 'til exams. All in all, it was another outstanding year for Kappa Alpha.

The brothers of Kappa Sigma had no sooner returned to "Dear Old Duke" than the still-packed bags were crammed into the cars headed for the Duke-South Carolina clash. Kappa Sig's David "Moose" Bosson and Joe Wuchina were among the leading players on the Duke 1960 A.C.C. Championship football team, and Kappa Sig cagers Merrill, Fred, Jack, Carroll, Charlie, Jay, and Doug led the way for a successful Blue Devil basketball season. Open houses . . . Saturday afternoon football games . . . cabin parties . . . quad cook-outs . . . and the "Animal Quad Ball" rounded out a most enjoyable fall semester.

The mid-semester break saw the complete re-decoration of the card room, along with paint and furniture for the Chapter room. Spring semester highlights included (after a "wild" rush) a near maximum sized pledge class . . . the Kappa Sigma area conclave at Duke . . . Joe College . . . the "Yatsi Web" . . . the beach weekend with water skiing . . . the crowning of our new Dream Girl, finals, and graduating seniors.

Bottom—Another party?

Continuing in their established tradition of excellence, the brothers of Lambda Chi Alpha enjoyed a year unmatched by any previous ones. The brothers returned in the fall with an enthusiastic desire to improve in all areas of fraternity life.

Fall semester was filled with smoke and the smell of burned hamburgers wafting over the campus from the front of the section as a result of the pre-game barbecues each Saturday. "Porker" gave the brothers an expanded social program resulting in numerous cabin parties of all types. Homecoming, Shoe 'n Slipper and the fraternity Winter Formal topped off an outstanding semester.

Spring semester began with rush, and the nineteen best men on campus made the right choice. Following in rapid succession were several cabin parties, the Luau at Bugg's Island, Joe College, and the annual Beach Weekend.

As individuals most of the brothers distinguished themselves in varied campus activities. Once again the fraternity stressed scholarship with the result of another improvement over the previous year's standing. The installation of Dr. James Bonk as chapter advisor promised to be a tremendous influence on the scholastic side of the fraternity's existence.

With Earl Shick channeling the brothers' enthusiasm in the proper direction, the Lambda Chi's became a closer, better, and more impressive fraternity. This year was a great one, and it is with eager anticipation that we await the fall of '61 and another year in the brotherhood of Lambda Chi Alpha.

Under the flaming inspiration of President John Parrish, the "Good-Ship-Phi" embarked upon another year. Scholastically, we finished first among the fraternities; socially, the football weekends brought many pretty girls and excitement; and on campus the Phi's were well represented in sports and extracurricular activities. Spring came and along with it rush and the Phi's walked off with the best on campus. G. Wilson and B. Bond provided the greatest social semester ever-including visits by the Hot Nuts, Shirley & Lee, and the fabulous Jimmy Reed. The Phi's were reported to be "on the scene" at Ft. Lauderdale during spring vacation. (This report was verified by a multitude of females "on the spot.") Joe College brought its usual quota of stunning imports and the annual "Beach Weekend Ritual" was observed with an ample supply of the proverbial "ceremonial wine." Other highlights were noted . . . Burr was not seen . . . Mattingly discovered East . . . Sheffield became a Democrat . . . Kersey graduated . . . T. O. . . . Silky went to pasture . . . Phi Psi Sweeheart, Martha Clark

Funny thing happened to us upon our return to campus in September; there was a weird green growth slowly developing in front of our beloved section. When the botany majors of our group identified it as grass, there was quite a stir within our diversified, but ever-so-gregarious brotherhood. Sixteen Phi Psi's left school in disgust, and fourteen nature-loving alumni, including the inimitable Mike Magoo, returned to witness this unheard-of spectacle. However, a swinging Homecoming Weekend, which found a horrible, deformed yellow jacket sprawled on the roof of the section, attracted thousands of wideeyed spectators who promptly crushed every last blade of the controversial vegetation.

Things soon returned to normal-i.e. never a dull moment. The social calendar was magnificent, as usual. Parties were plentiful, and they brachiatedespecially when climaxed by an incredibly superlative beach weekend. No sense in enumerating the gaveties-it would only serve to frustrate would-be social chairmen.

Representation in campus activities (for whatever they're worth) was more than respectable with Mike Schmidt, Ernie Taylor, Don Kisslan, Duke Marston, Chuck Silkett, and others . . . a veritable starstudded cast.

We thought this year was a honey-wait until next September. The grassmen of the fraternity are planning to unite and form a coalition known as the Gay Blades. Who can tell what wild adventures the future holds in store for us?

Haunting the halls of CC, the old Skull and Bones of Phi Kappa Sigma bookie-hopped through another fabulous year. Phi Kaps opened the year with seven fall pledges and the momentum carried through the spring, swelling our ranks with more proud men of the crux aurata. We were proud of our men J. D., Beard and the Judge "down the quad," proud of our intramural endeavors, and proud of the academic records registered by outgoing seniors.

Somebody said they remembered getting an early start in the "stench house" on Friday afternoon . . . Esky and Higgi doing Jimmy Reed tandem in the halls . . . mundane comments from T-square and George . . . sophisticated sippin' at Willowhaven . . . Duck's swinging social program . . . "Santa Claus" Stanton and his Virginia Beach fables . . . midnight games of R. E. . . . 14,000 Phi Kaps pouring in from all over the country to sign up for O's course spring semester . . . Big Jay, Buzzy, Peahead, and Ray clearing the boards at Lambda, spring Black and Gold (somebody said Beat Pete showed up with Thelma) . . . Moon's true stories during rush . . . Andy and Freets keeping up the spirit of old D.U. . . . Vaudeville star Rowland and his winebottle act . . . and Queen Annette. It was truly a vintage year for Bacchus and the brotherhood carrying on the tradition of Phi Kappa Sigma.

The Bitter Hawk became happy when he won a Rogue Scholarship to Carolina, and Henry Hawk won a bridge fellowship to Mimi U. Drunken Trash will soon be drinking formaldehyde, and Sid will use his Phi Bete key to unlock his Marine locker. A gap in Durham was filled by the return of Limbo, and Darf did much for the cause of integration in the city. Strings found a home away from home in G-A; Kemper got a job with the Hell Drivers, and both Wheels and B.B. were out selling guitar strings and blood to pay for a big party this summer. Swan learned a new song-"Theme from The Apartment." The Brash and Gugs found it easier to live on the right side of the law, and J. C. finally visited the Duke Chapel. Two really great guys, Fuzzy and Root, looked after the cultural affairs of the fraternity. Croc, almost bankrupted us with his social budget . . . and a good time was had by all-even Mama Ada.

Six brothers will go on to med school, nine will become Naval Officers, and two will become migrant farm workers. Fall semester '60 shook loose with partying in "Casablanca style" and home football games that most of us, including Navy, won't forget. A hazy Shoe 'n' Slipper passed along with a shrewd though squeaky effort at Homecoming with "To Heck with Tech." Fall also found us highlighting it again to "Scandia" for The Rose Ball where Helgi Kuuskraa was crowned fraternity Rose.

Intramural participation was frustrating in that both the football and b-ball teams were shut-out in the homestretch. An Alumni Banquet sparked by "the Golden Greek" added enjoyment as the storms of winter closed in. Few of us will want to remember "Ham's" oratorical attempts or the Wagner fastbreak, Nubb's Knuckles or The Bear doing the Twist.

The annual Orphan's Party, complete with football game, and the traditional Christmas Cabin Party sent Mu home in festive mood although prepared to return and rack up a fraternity average to fourth on campus.

Rush paced spring off, the word was "enthoosiasm" . . . and the largest pledge class on campus. Lightning's impromptus and "Old Blue" are worth recalling even though some of Sabin's friends aren't. Bugg's Island, Gate Parties, and the roof minimized boredom until Spring Vacation. We returned in tans or with frostbite to honor the new brothers at the Pledge Dance on Joe College Weekend. Myrtle Dunes loomed briefly before finals, then commencement, and the end of another memorable year for Pi Kappa Phi.

Once upon a time there were three bears: mama bear, papa bear and fun-loving baby bear. Baby bear went away to a rock pile, and he is sitting there still—except he resembles a lion now. Which goes to show that bears don't always abide in the woods. So while our bear, disguised as a lion, sat gallantly in front of the section as a lone sentinel of the everchanging SAE tradition, the brothers passed another year at Duke in diversified unity.

The Fall semester was characterized by the amazing ability to precede the Spring semester, both of which will be remembered by all. Awareness of this fact caused the fraternity's cooperative efforts to be motivated toward the annual Christmas Dance, renowned for its congenial, social environment manifesting the true spirits of the Sons of Minerva.

But when the fun was over and the grades were out, individuals paused to consider what paths they would take through the coming months of spring. Thoughts of 3.0's and great intellectual achievement struggled with memories of good times, and once again the sincere determination to do well dominated the thinking of every brother. In unity there is strength and the group came on strong—with Jimmy Reed setting the theme for a Spring keynoted by a most worthy pledge class. Joe College, the beach—the music of the spheres rang in every car as brothers departed for a summer's vacation—leaving our bear, disguised as a lion, to gambol at will through the spirit-filled halls of SAE.

As another crop of "frosh" hit the Duke campus in Sept., there was a large group of Sig Y-Men there to turn them in the right direction. ("Mayola's is right around the corner from the U.G.") A week later the rest of the brothers returned for a renewal of their diligent study habits. Dominating the bull-sessions during that first week were "Cosmo" and "Rex" fresh from a tour of Europe and Byron just back from Russia.

The social program got off to a good start under Social Chairman Jerry Burnette with the usual pregame cookouts, cabin parties and open houses. The highlight of the year was Sweetheart Weekend in Raleigh where Penny McIntire's coronation as Sweetheart of Sigma Chi was only slightly more spectacular than Steve's grand entrance at breakfast. Where did he get those slaves?

The end of the semester brought a new slate of officers, with Sam Yancy replacing John Derrick as president, and found the Sigs in first place in the race for the IM trophy.

Then came the period of sore hands and classcutting—Rush! After two long, arduous weeks it was over and 22 freshmen donned the Norman Shield, thanks to Rush Chairman Creighton Wright. Second semester saw the Sigs fighting toward their fifth consecutive IM trophy under the guiding eye of "Bones" Tipton. At the same time the social program moved thru cabin parties to little get-togethers at the Eno and Piney Mt. to Joe College to the grand finale—Beach Weekend!

Once again, the Knights of the Legion of Honor assembled upon the Duke campi, concentrated their forces in House A, and began the crusade for an unforgettable year. Tank and Will "visited" us for "one more semester," while the Night Crew kept watch in the still of the evening. Newt joined the future Rockefellers, Org waited on a med school, OB and Bird sewed up second in the Poker Derby, but Bird wanted a trophy and decided to come back and try for it again. Dutch kept Balfour busy with his new pin orders, and Gant continued with his save-asoul program. Rosy, Woose, Rossini, and Fish met a new friend in New Orleans, while Coane and Company kept Agnes company. Pebo and Figurehead ran a taut ship while Jack and Tids brought back the cream of the freshmen crop assistance from the Sigma Nu doughnut girls. "Teenage Idol" strummed a mean guitar and the Mad Turk told us about Europe. Hey-man opened his eyes for rush and saw everybody wearing Weejuns. S.D. Mace tried to stamp out prejudice but just stepped on "Little George." Bauder, Melvin, and Schroeder formed the Hairless Trio. Twink and Gorman kept the Student Union going in spite of Mace, while other brothers headed the M.S.G.A., D.U.M.B., and M.K.O.S. and found spots in various campus honoraries.

The usual round of cabin parties, open houses, pinnings, Joe College, the fabulous Myrtle Beach weekend, all combined to give a real meaning to the nebulous concept of brotherhood.

First Annual TEP Rebel Open House (fried chicken, hush puppies, and indigestion for all) . . . First Annual TEP Poker Derby . . . these slogans show the new face on the old Tau Epsilon Phi. Both of these campuswide activities emphasized the new TEP.

The rowdy sophomore element, with the ZONK, Chink, and LRHP brought new spirits, sayings, and tourists to the Fourteenth Century Disneyland. The ever-lurking junior element, with hot plates in hand, welcomed the new housemother. The cynical seniors wandered through Durham hunting for sin and satisfaction, ended up at the Charco-Burger. During the year we were honored by visits from such celebrities as Chief Jackson, the Great White Father, Neil and Buddy.

From the first cabin party to the final banquet, the TEP's have socialized with one undying aim . . . SEX. Our new living grill was present at the pregame barbecues. TEP's annual migration across the Gaza strip and Georgia to the promised land in south Florida occurred without incident . . . by the way, what's a nice guy like Phydo doing across the quad?

TEP continued its active participation in campuswide activities encompassing all areas of student life. Top posts were held in dramatic, publication, religious, and engineering organizations. For TEP, this was a great year and the beginning of the NEW TAU EPSILON PHI.

The Theta Chi's bombed back this fall enjoying a new confidence in themselves after having doubled the size of the fraternity with men enthusiastic enough to win the Greek Week Trophy last spring. New committees such as "Good of the Fraternity" sparked under the diplomatic leadership of Larry ("Hot Lips") Howard who gave direction to the unity and vitality of the brotherhood. Cecil B. (for cello) Moores and Rog Hess, boy artist, were the co-chairman of our prize-winning Homecoming Display which featured "ye olde time" silent flick (complete with thumping piano and overloaded Renault) entitled The Great Tech Defeat. Our social program boasted five combo parties and two gate parties, much to the chagrin of D. Goode, Chancellor of the Exchequer. Tim (quiet hours!) This year was the year of the Dog for Zeta Beta Tau. We had always had Fido and Pluto, but this year they were joined by Max. We had a president who barked out orders, and anyone who strained the leash got put into the doghouse. Our All-American Pest was more trouble than a kennel of mutts. Completing the menagerie was a Worm, an Anteater, a Turtle, a Rabbit, a Rodent, a Barbarian, and a violent, new Crow-Man.

There were no dogs at any of our parties, however. (You believe it!) To make up for the beasts who did slip through, though, there were Linda, Lynda, Jayne, Judy, Izzie, Betsy, Nedra, Bobbie, Diane, Sheila, and Bonnie. There was also Mirsk's girl, whom he visited every time we had a party.

After a great rush, led by the Great Danz, sixteen pledges decided to bark up the ZBT tree. The Cool One kept them in line as they worked, played, and cheated their way into the fraternity.

This was also the Zebe's year for public service. Our mock election accurately predicted the Nixon landslide. Our Ugly Man contest found Larry Shriver to be the biggest dog on campus.

And finally this year, as all years, became another one to be remembered, not only because of everything above, but also because of the Cholesterol Kid, the Next Governor of North Carolina, and the Right Hand Man; "new look" Schwacha and "old look" Comess; get-togethers at the Holiday Inn and the Chinese Open House; and finally because of all the nuts who call Duke their home for nine months.

Sponsored by Bassett House and voted by West Campus to be Duke's homecoming queen, Annie Lewis Johnston reigned over the homecoming festivities. Her home is Jackson, Tennessee, and she is a sister of Alpha Della Pi. As an outstanding senior in leadership, scholarship, and service, besides being homecoming queen, Annie Lewis represented Duke in the Cotton Bowl game in Dallas.

Homecoming weekend brought over 1000 alumni back to the campus, parties, skits, queen, football game, homecoming dance, fraternity displays, and sorority posters.

Aycock House won the skit contest with "To the Woods" as festivities opened for the weekend with the Homecoming Show. The newly instituted poster contest was won by Alpha Epsilon Phi sorority. "The Great Defeat" display enabled Theta Chi to capture first place in the fraternity competition while House H, with its "canning factory" was awarded first place in the freshman competition.

Annie Lewis Johnston was crowned homecoming queen Friday night. She was presented during the halftime of the football game on Saturday where forty thousand students, alumni, and other fans cheered Duke to a thrilling victory over Georgia Tech, 6-0.

Sports

Athletic Department

1951 may be cited as the year of demarcation in the history of intercollegiate athletics at Duke, for it was ten years ago that E. M., "Eddie," Cameron assumed the position of Director of the Department of Physical Education and Athletics. Since that time, the University's attainments in the collegiate realm of sport have been no less than sensational.

Football, the major collegiate sport, has been personally attended to by Mr. Cameron and Coach Murray. In their ten years together, these gentlemen witnessed the Blue Devils' rise to national prominence on the gridiron. The Iron Dukes have, during the last ten years, won no less than five A.C.C. Championships, as well as three post-season bowls, and they have been accorded a high national ranking six times. In addition, the name of Duke has come to be respected in basketball, baseball, and tennis circles.

The duties of the Athletic Department are not limited to producing fine teams. There are many other important matters to be dealt with, and it is here that Mr. Cameron's fine staff takes over. Carl James is concerned with maintaining close relations with the boys who wear the "D," supervising their work and seeing to their personal welfare. Ted Mann, and his student assistant, Add Penfield, handle athletic publicity, providing both the press and the public with statistics, notes, and the like. "Red" Lewis and Mrs. Florence Blalock are in charge of the financial affairs of the Department.

The role which the Athletic Department has played in the success of intercollegiate athletics at Duke cannot be overemphasized. The men and women who work "behind the scenes" rarely, if ever, meet with public plaudits, and yet they gain a great deal of personal satisfaction each and every time that a Duke team takes the field.

F OOTBALL

Bouncing back from a 4-6 season's record in 1959, the 1960 Blue Devils posted an impressive 7-3 slate against some of the stiffest competition in the country. The schedule included games with such perennial powers as Navy, U.C.L.A., and Michigan. In addition, the Blues played against many All-American gridiron standouts like Bellino, Kilmer, and Gabriel. In view of these facts, the squad can certainly be proud of its fine showing. In spite of the presence of many individual stars, it was a "team effort" that carried the Dukes through a fine season, and enabled them to emerge as conquerors of their Cotton Bowl foe, Arkansas.

Perhaps the most obvious factor of the Devil success story lies in the team's balance. Coach Murray's men combined a potent offense with an almost impenetrable defense to cop the A.C.C. crown. And the Devil attack was all the more powerful with two units operating during the games, both platoons going all out for the full sixty minutes.

Duke football fans will remember for quite some time the achievements of the 1960 squad; the torpedoing of an "unbeatable" Navy team, the sensational comeback at Dallas. The Blue Devil backfield was a superlative one, with Altman and Rappold calling signals and Leggett, Wilson, Wright, and Burch driving through and around the opposition to pick up valuable yardage. There was "Tee" Moorman, the Florida boy who filled the All-American shoes left by Mike McGee, a classic sight as he loped downfield to snag an Altman aerial. And 1960 was the year of the "solid wall" up front—a line composed of Allie, Bengal, Bosson, Browning, Bumgarner, Gregory, Havens, Kotchin, Wuchina, Markus, and all the others who did such a great iob.

Coach Bill Murray and his excellent staff of assistants did a superlative job in bringing the team along. It is a comforting fact for Duke followers to know that the coaching staff won't rest on its laurels, but rather, with many boys returning next year, will be more fired-up than ever to beat "that institution" and "Give 'em hell . . ."

Coach Murray confers with Captain Art Browning.

Duke 31 South Carolina 0

The first contest of the 1960 season found the Blue Devils pitted against the Gamecocks of South Carolina. Coach Warren Geses's squad got the first taste of Duke's promised "new look," a well-rounded, lethal offense.

Scoring honors of the engagement were snagged by All-American End "Tree" Moorman. Big number 95 hauled in 11 passes, a new A.C.C. record. One aerial, launched by Quarterback Don Altman, was good for 23 yards and a touchdown. Backs Dave Burch and Jack Wilson also broke into the scoring column with touchdown runs. The magic toe of Billy Reynolds accounted for a 24 yard field goal and 4 extra points. Mark Leggett, appearing in his first varsity game, gained 82 yards on the ground to lead the squad in rushing.

Duke 20 Maryland 7

Appearing next in College Park, Maryland, the Iron Dukes found a stubborn opponent in the Terrapins. Held scoreless for the first 28 minutes of play, the Blues finally broke the ice, as Walt Rappold, second unit quarterback, scored on an 11 yard run. The Devils broke loose for two more tallies in the third period, with Jack Wilson and Dave Burch scoring their second touchdowns in as many games. Joel Arrington was the rushing leader with 61 yards in 14 tries.

The Duke defense was superb. Maryland runners were checked by the imposing line of Bumgarner, Allie, Bosson, Gregory, Berry, and others. Taking to the air, the Terps fared no better, for the Dukes intercepted 5 passes, which set up their scoring drives.

Duke 6 Michigan 31

Before a vast crowd of some 77,000 at Ann Arbor, Michigan, the Blue Devils suffered their first setback of the campaign. An unheralded back, Dale Raimey, led an inspired Wolverine eleven. After the game, Coach Bill Murray noted, "He was the difference, without him the contest would have been closer." Raimey ran for 114 yards, scoring twice in the process.

The Michigan defense proved to be exceptionally tough. Whenever the Dukes were deep in Michigan territory, a fumble, an interception, or the solid Wolverine line prevented them from moving the ball further. Joel Arrington turned in another fine performance, averaging better than 5 yards per carry, with a total of 64 yards. Don Altman passed for another 86 yards, but the Devils managed only one score.

Duke 17 North Carolina State 13

Playing before a home audience for the first time in 1960, the Blue Devils avenged a Michigan defeat by beating State. Offensively, the contest was a struggle between the well-balanced Duke attack and the fantastic arm of State's Roman Gabriel. Duke drew first blood, when Billy Reynolds entered the game in the first quarter and kicked a 24 yard field goal. Ten minutes later, the Blues moved the scoreboard total again, as the combination of Walt Rappold and Tee Moorman clicked to move the ball downfield. John Tinnell plunged into paydirt from the one.

The Duke victory, however, was a come-from-behind effort. With Gabriel at the helm, the Wolfpack roared back for two touchdowns and a 13-10 lead. Then, in the waning moments of the third period, Dean Wright swept around right end for what proved to be the winning margin.

Duke 21 Clemson 6

An always-dangerous Clemson team invaded Duke Stadium the following weekend and were the next victims of Bill Murray's men. Shortly after the game began, the Duke offensive machine went into high gear, driving 62 yards to score. Clemson matched the effort, though, as Bill McGuirt powered the Tigers to their first and only touchdown.

The hungry Devils battled back, running and passing their way downfield to the one, where Dave Burch smashed over with the winning margin. The third period saw one of the most exciting plays of the season. Sensational sophomore Mark Leggett, speeding around left end, broke away for 70 yards and the third and final tally of the afternoon.

Duke 19 Navy 10

"We've got the goat," was the Duke cry before the game began. In a humorous incident, the rambunctious members of the Class of '64 had releived the Midshipmen of their famed mascot. But this served to incite the Navy team, as they completely dominated the first half of play. Boasting the services of All-American Joe Bellino and Captain Joe Matalavage, the Middies capitalized on Duke miscues to build up a 10-0 half-time lead. Greg Mather, the starting end for Navy, scored all of his team's points. Mather kicked a 25 yard field goal, then caught a 9 yard pass from Quarterback Hal Spooner good for 6 points, and booted the PAT.

Mark Leggett (47) gains through the line. Other Duke players are Bengel (57), Wyatt (22), and Havens (68).

Duke 6 Georgia Tech 0

Homecoming Day saw a brilliant defensive effort decide a low-scoring but exciting contest with the Yellow Jackets from Atlanta A near-capacity crowd filled Duke Stadium and roared it approval as the Devils came through with a classy 6-0 victory. The game's only score did not come until the opening minutes of the fourth quarter, when Dean Wright skipped into the end zone from the 1 yard line. Otherwise, the Duke offense experienced bitter frustration. Two field goal attempts missed their mark, and fumbles and interceptions kept the Blues from tallying until Wright's plunge.

Heartbreak is perhaps the best word describing the football game between Duke and the University of North Carolina played at Chapel Hill on November 19. The Tarheels pulled off one of the biggest upsets in A.C.C. history as they beat the nationally-ranked Blue Devils. All the Blue drives in the first half were stopped cold. Play in the second half looked like it would follow the same pattern. Finally, in the final period, the wheels began to turn. Mark Leggett returned a punt 58 yards to the Carolina 40. Jack Wilson, Dave Burch, and Dean Wright moved the ball downfield to the 1, where Dave Burch bulled his way over to score. The PAT failed, and Duke had a 6-0 lead.

The Tarheels were still very much in the ball game. In a memorable play, Quarterback Ray Fartis threw off-balance to Milam Wall; the pass resulted in a 40 yard gain. The Tarheels drove to the 2, and then tied the score. The PAT was successful, and the two minutes left on the clock were not enough for the Dukes to come back. The team from "that institution" played the game of the year in defeating Duke.

Duke 34 Wake Forest 7

On the road again, the Blue Devils invaded Bowman Grav Stadium at Wake Forest and proceeded to demolish the Demon Deacons. Scoring the first time they got the ball, the Duke tally came on an Altman to Moorman aerial. This pass reception set a new school record, as Tee replaced former Duke great Howard Pitt as the University's leader in total number of receptions in a player's career. The Deacons then went ahead 7-6, but the Blues came right back. Mark Leggett ran 35 yards to set up the scoring play; Walt Rappold smashed over from the 2. Dean Wright made good on the 2 point conversion, and the Devils had a 14-7 lead at half-time.

In the second half, the Dukes really opened up. The squad picked up three more touchdowns, the first capping a 67 yard drive, and the other two resulting from pass interceptions. The final score came on a pass from Gil Garner to Swing End Ed Chesnutt in the closing moments. The victory clinched at least a tie for the A.C.C. title for the high-riding Dukes.

Duke 6 U. C. L. A. 27

The last game of the regular season found the Blue Devils taking it on the chin for the third time, as the Blues were stunned by the single wing offense of the U.C.L.A. Bears. Bruin All-American Bill Kilmer led his team offensively, while capturing the total offense crown of 1960. Scoring in every period, the Bears ran and passed their way to four touchdowns. The lone Duke tally came in the final quarter, when Dean Wright capped a 61 yard drive, scoring from the two.

There were many factors which may have contributed to the Devil defeat. The fact that they were performing before a national television audience may have had some psychological effect on the players. In addition, their morale may have suffered as a result of the U.N.C. loss. This is to take nothing away from the fine U.C.L.A. squad, as the Westerners played a superb game. The bowl-bound Dukes ended the season with a 7-3 record.

B ASKETBALL

The Blue Devil team of 1960-61 will go down as one of the all time greats in Duke history. The season was marked by excitement, and although the team did not capture any Conference or National laurels, it posted an outstanding record and was continually ranked in national polls. Experience for the team was provided by four outstanding seniors, Captain Howard Hurt, Carrol Youngkin, Doug Kistler, and Johnny Frye. The best sophomore in the country, according to Sports Illustrated, All-American Art Heyman, added definite strength and life to the team.

Staging an 80 to 74 opening win over L.S.U., the Blue Devils scored three successive victories and were undefeated at the beginning of Christmas vacation. Swinging into the deep South, the charges of Coach Vic Bubas soundly thrashed Georgia Tech 61 to 48, and beat the University of Florida 84 to 64.

Carrying six wins and no losses and a high national ranking into the Dixie Classic, the Blue Devils, sparked by Captain Howard Hurt, ran roughshod over Wyoming in the opening round. The following night, the Blue Devils polished off stubborn Marquette 86 to 73 only to be denied the championship by U.N.C. Despite the defeat inflicted by the Tar Heels, the team played well in the tournament and retained high national ranking.

After the Classic, the Devils manhandled a strong

Navy team and soundly defeated N.C. State in the indoor Stadium. Beginning to tire because of an exhausting schedule, the Blue Dukes barely escaped defeat at the hands of Virginia. The team surged back, however, to defeat Maryland and Clemson prior to the second semester. The Blue Devils, handicapped by the loss of Jack Mullen, managed to roll over Vir-

Inspired by the superb performance of Art Heyman, who dumped in 36 points, the Dukes ground out an 81 to 77 victory over U.N.C. In this pressure-packed game, Carroll Youngkin was a mountain of strength as he scored 18 points and hauled down 11 rebounds. The entire team played well and deserved the victory.

The all out effort against U.N.C. had its effect, however, as the Blue Devils were surprised by N.C. State 61 to 59 in Raleigh. The team returned home, and aroused by the loss to State, had a 70 per cent shooting average and a 24 point lead at halftime against Wake Forest. The Demon Deacons closed the gap during the second half, but were simply no match for the hot-handed Blue Devils. Johnny Frye tossed in 25 points for his career high at Duke, and Art Heyman contributed 31.

Five days later, the Blue Devils moved over to Winston-Salem to meet Wake Forest again. Wake Forest seemingly could do no wrong and defeated our team 103 to 89. The Blue Devils then moved on to College Park and absorbed their third defeat in spite of Doug Kistler's 16 point effort. The team managed to defeat Navy 75 to 73 and returned home to beat Virginia 77 to 66. The Blue Devils then proceeded to New York and trounced Seaton Hall 112 to 78. After the New York trip, the team readied itself for the season's last regularly scheduled game, an encounter with U.N.C. at Chapel Hill.

In the U.N.C. game, the inspired play of Hurt, Youngkin, and Kistler almost gave the Dukes a victory, but the Tar Heels managed to turn the tide and won in an overtime. In the opening and semifinal rounds of the A.C.C. Tournament, the Blue Devils dealt Virginia and South Carolina crushing defeats. In the final round, however, the team could not overcome the Wake Forest Demon Deacons.

B ASEBALL

The Devil batsmen were slow getting started this year, as is shown by the 2-5 record compiled over the first three weeks of the season. Midway through the campaign, however, the Blues seemed to be coming on, as they swept two straight from A.C.C. opponents Clemson and South Carolina. Coach "Ace" Parker made no excuses for the team's slow start, but seemed confident that the veterans would do justice to themselves as the season wore on. The pitching corps was composed of Don Altman, Ron Kalish, and Butch Williams. Handling the catching chores was Art Browning, who filled in for Dixon Owens when the latter was injured. The infield had Bobby Horne at third, hard-hitting Lynn Fader at short, Gary Miller at second, and Bob Rankin at the first sack. Patrolling the outfield were Rex Mc-Kinley and Ronny Davis. The right field slot was usually filled by a pitcher or Bob Rankin.

The 1961 track team, paced by one of the finest groups of sophomores in the school's history, started its season at the Florida Relays. Bob Stevenson captured second in the high jump, and Dick Gesswein took fourth in the shotput. Duke then opened its dual meet season against the University of Florida with an easy victory. Sophs John Zwerner, Dick Gesswein, and Frank Campbell were double winners in the meet; while Louis Van Dyck, Pete Little, Larry Frank, John McIlwain, and Dave Jones all contributed victories.

The Dukes then returned north to meet the University of Virginia. The Blue Devil victory was highlighted with Dick Gesswein's school record toss of $54^{\circ}11^{\circ}2^{\circ}$ in the shotput. The team recorded its third consecutive victory a week later when they overpowered Clemson and Wake Forest in a triangular meet. Miler Louis Van Dyck turned in the outstanding performance of the day with a time of 4.23.5 on a slow wet track. Led by so many fine sophomores, Duke's track future looks very bright.

Determination and desire were the words which characterized the Devil stickmen this year; a will to live up to their potential seemed to be the motivating force behind each of the players. Faced with a 7-game slate, the stickmen were anxious to improve on the previous year's 2-7 record. The season's opener, played on April 5, pitted the Devils against a hustling Brown team. The invaders from Rhode Island carried a well-earned victory back to Providence. The score was 10-6. Coach Jack Persons was generally pleased with the performance of his players, especially Lloyd Griffith and Mike Mattingly who each tallied twice. Bob Voorhees and Mike Sherman added one apiece.

Under the guidance of coach Jim Bly the 1960 Blue Devil Soccer team compiled an over-all record of five wins, two ties, and two losses, and captured second place in the conference. The Devils scored victories over Roanoke, Washington and Lee, Virginia, Pfeiffer College, and North Carolina. They tied North Carolina State and Lynchburg and lost to Maryland, the nation's second ranked team, and Davidson.

In addition four Duke standouts were named to the All South team. Co-captain Pete Moller and John Stacey were named at the two fullback positions along with Wally Kaufman at left halfback and Hobbie Hyde at outside left. Co-captain John Birmingham and Tony Battelle, the season's high scorer, also played a vital part in the team's highly successful campaign.

The first test for the Duke thinclads came on October 1, when they met a strong Navy squad. Led by Bernie Fleming, three middies cracked the existing course record. Fleming's time was 17:29.1 for the 3.8 miles. The Iron Dukes swept fifth through ninth places, but wound up on the wrong end of a 20-35 score.

Placing seven in the first ten finishers, the Blues triumphed over Wake Forst and N.C. State in a triangular meet. Lou Van Dyck was the first Devil across the finish line with a time of 18:01. The Ironmen posted another convincing double win, as they defeated the harriers of Clemson and the Citadel. Frank Campbell was the first Duke to finish, and he was followed by six teammates in close order. Returning to double meets, the Dukes lost to South Carolina, 25-33, and to Maryland, 117-43. The Devils had better success against U. Va. copping seven of the first ten places. The final engagement of the regular season saw the Devils lose to the Carolina harriers, 18-38. Louis Van Dyck managed a third, and Dick Heitzenrater and Lloyd Brinson also finished in the first ten.

Coach Carmen Falcone's grapplers opened the 1960-61 season by nipping the Wildcats of Davidson College. The 14-13 victory was not determined until the last match of the afternoon, when Dave Dalton decisioned his opponent. In their next effort, the Dukes suffered their first setback of the campaign, losing to the Virginia Cavaliers. Joe Warren, Tom Paul, and Frank Bernstein accounted for all of the team's points. A fine squad from Washington and Lee was the next conqueror of the Devil matmen, as the Virginians posted a convincing 24-6 victory. The "big match" of the year found the pitmen facing the North Carolina Tarheels. The visitors from Chapel Hill had little trouble in gaining a 32-5 victory. Bill Scott was the only member of the team to win his match. The team couldn't shake its losing ways, as it dropped its engagement with the N.C. State Wolfpack, 26-8. The only bright spot of the afternoon was Bill Scott, who won his third straight match. Chuck Grossman also contributed to the Blues' point total. The final contest of the season saw the Maryland Terps, the strongest team in the A.C.C., manhandle the matmen 34-0.

S WIMMING

This year Blue Devil mermen finished a successful season with an overall record of five wins and four losses. Under the guidance of coach Walter Persons, the Devilfish registered victories over Clemson, Wake Forest, South Carolina, Virginia, and Georgia Tech. The four defeats were suffered at the hands of Maryland, North Carolina State, North Carolina, and Navy.

The squad's outstanding star was Co-captain Tony Brush who went undefeated in nine duel meet matches and won both the high and low board diving competition in the A.C.C. Championships. At Navy he defeated the same diver who was instrumental in handing Yale its first duel meet defeat in fifteen years.

In addition to Brush, the outstanding Blue Devil swimmers were Co-captain Bill Webber, Steve Smith, Bob Kingsbury, and Bob Diamond in the sprints, Backstroker John Woodworth, Heath Boyer in the Butterfly, and Distance man Doug Gill.

TENNIS

Faced with a tough 17-game schedule and the postseason A.C.C. tournament, the 1961 Devil netmen relied heavily on sophomores from 1960's undefeated freshman team to support returning lettermen, Joe Gaston, Galen Griffin, and Captain Hoby Hyde. The first nia games of the season saw the racquet men emerge with a 4-5 record. The team's victories came over Ohio State, Kalamazoo, Notre Dame, and Davidson. The losses need not be explained away, as the team played exceptionally well, though dropping matches to such perenially outstanding squads as Harvard, Princeton, Florida, and Miami. Playing against these fine teams, Coach Bob Cox's charges gained valuable experience which should help them considerably as they prepare to square off against their A.C.C. foes in the latter half of the season.

Duke's varsity linksters started their 1961 season during Spring vacation at the Miami Invitational tournament. Coach "Dumpy" Hagler's Devils finished the four day competition in tie for second place behind Lamar Tech. Dick Dion, Les Davies, and Allan Breed were the low 3 for Duke, and in addition Dion was first round medalist with a 71.

Returning home, the Blue Devils opened their regular season against the University of Michigan. Lead by Les Davies' 72, the Dukes swept to a victory. This initial victory was quickly followed by a (22-5) win over the University of South Carolina. Sophomore George Smith captured medalist honors with an even Par 72. Continuing their winning ways, the team traveled to Raleigh where they met and defeated North Carolina State 16-11. Ted McKenzie was low man with a 73. John Birmingham and Captain Jack Doser were also instrumental in the victory.

"Mighty 'Righty' launches a winner."

"Take that, you bully."

"Come on out and cheer for your team!" Enthusiasm runs through the East dormitories and sororities as the competition becomes close. Sports of many varieties are included in the intramural program in order to offer an opportunity for all girls to participate. Points are given to the winners of the individual and team sports, and team trophies and individual awards are given in a spring assembly. The House Cup was won this year by Southgate and Alpha Delta Pi won the sorority award.

"Zapp!"

"Bye, Bye birdie."

"Last one to the end gets drowned!"

"That's right, Suzie, looks like another gutter-run."

In the fall tennis, badminton, and volleyball tournaments are sponsored to open the competition. Later in the year basketball, bowling, softball, archery, and swimming round out the program. Running results of the tournaments are posted in conspicuous places on campus. Games bring out both experienced and amateur "athletes" in an effort to prove that each has an unbeatable team. Even those who only stand and cheer find the intramural program exciting and rewarding.

The Duke intramural program is designed to give every student an opportunity to participate in some form of competitive athletics. The major sports are football in the fall, basketball and volleyball in the winter, and softball in the spring. This year's football championship was won by freshman house H. This marks the first time in the history of the program that a freshman house has won the title. The Law School finished in second place. The basketball championship was captured by the Snowbirds, an independent team, who defeated Phi Delta Theta in the finals of the playoffs. At the end of the fall semester Sigma Chi, last year's winners, were leading in total point competition.

Sigma Chi's are defeated by the Law School team.

In addition to team and individual sports, the Intramural program also sponsored a Co-Rec Night in which women's dorms teamed with fraternities in various mixed sports and games. Duke also took part in a Big Four Day where our intramural teams competed with teams from Wake Forest, North Carolina, and N.C. State.

This year under the leadership of manager Marty Brueggemann, the program expanded itself to include Bowling as a winter sport which received overwhelming response.

New members were tapped last spring and again in the fall for Phi Kappa Delta, the leadership fraternity of Senior women. Its purpose is to recognize representatives from all campus activities who have shown outstanding achievement in scholarship, leadership, character, and service. It was founded in 1944 by the members of Omicron Delta Kappa, its brother fraternity, together with the student leaders of the Women's campus.

Phi Eta Sigma

This local scholastic honorary for sophomores, sponsored by Dean Barney Jones, recognizes outstanding scholarship and provides an administrative structure for academic leadership. This year the members of Phi Eta Sigma conducted a touring program for freshmen, ushered at various university functions, and joined Ivy in honoring freshmen who had a 3.0 midsemester average at a special banquet. The group tapped freshmen who earned a 3.5 average for their first semester at Duke or an overall 3.5 average for their first two semesters.

Ivy

As the scholastic honorary for sophomore women, Ivy presented the Dormitory Scholarship Cup to the East Campus dorm which had the highest average. Joining with Phi Eta Sigma, Ivy's equivalent on West, this group gave a banquet for freshmen who had a "B" average at midsemester. The purpose of Ivy is the encouragement of scholarship and the stimulation of intellectual curiosity among freshmen women. Twice during the year Ivy tapped and initiated the women with a 3.25 average who were elegible for membership.

Order of St. Patrick

Knights do exist today, and some may be found even in the midst of the gothic towers and gargoyles of Duke University. However, these twentieth-century noblemen have more practical goals than running down misplaced goblets or slaying dragons. They are all members of the Order of St. Patrick, an Engineering School honorary society. It was in 1945 that the Engineering Student Government recognized the need of stimulating campus interest and pride in the School of Engineering, and the Order of St. Patrick was instituted to fulfill this function.

Since its founding, this society has worked toward the recognition of men who have exemplified a high standard of character and leadership in engineering activities. It fosters understanding and good fellowship among its members, and strives to encourage interest and participation in engineering activities. In addition to these pursuits, the Order of St. Patrick joins Tau Beta Pi in sponsoring the annual slide rule lectures for new math and engineering students.

Eligibility for membership is based on a point system of scholarship and extra-curricular activities. Admission to the society is limited to juniors and seniors.

Tau Beta Pi

As the leaves turned and fall arrived, Tau Beta Pi began its slide rule lectures. A series of five lectures were given once a week by members of the faculty. These informative meetings were devoted to explaining the uses of the slide rule to any interested or unenlightened students. Early in the year, Tau Beta Pi presented a Freshman Year Award to the outstanding student of the previous year's freshman engineering class.

Tau Beta Pi is a national scholastic honorary for engineers, founded on the Duke campus in 1948. Its purpose is to recognize those students in engineering who have distinguished themselves by high scholarship and exemplary character. To be considered for membership, a student must be an engineer in the top twelve and one-half percent of the junior class, or in the top twenty percent of the senior class. Tau Beta Pi selects from these groups those who have exhibited integrity, breadth of interest, adaptability, and unselfish activity. A tapping ceremony was performed in the fall and again in the spring, and an initiation banquet followed shortly thereafter.

"Bonjour" is the welcome in Tau Psi Omega, and very little English is spoken thereafter. This French Honorary joins to its ranks those students who show an interest and proficiency in that language of the land of Bardot, Zola, and Marceau. An especially active honorary, Tau Psi Omega met weekly for dinner in the East Campus Union. During the meal, all conversation was conducted in French. This was no barrier to these bilingual students, who chatted about current events, French language and customs, French history, and current books and movies. For a change of atmosphere (though not quite authentic French) the group journeyed occasionally to the Rathskeller in Chapel Hill. Other activities included public movies and lectures with the intention of promoting interest in France and the French heritage.

The biggest event of the year was the presentation, in early March, of the French play L'Avare, by the comedy writer Moliere. The performance climaxed weeks of hard work, and actors convinced an audience of French students that they could act a role completely in French. To be eligible for membership, a student must have a B average in all French courses and a minimum overall C average.

There are many honoraries on West Campus which acknowledge scholastic achievement, but only one society, the Varsity "D" Club, which salutes Duke's athletes. The organization's avowed purpose is threefold: to sponsor various campus functions; to aid charitable concerns, such as the Heart Fund or the Cancer Fund Drive; and to serve the athletic department, bearing in mind the best interests of athletes and coaches alike. This vear, the club's agenda included the election of Duke's candidate for Queen of the Dixie Classic, the sponsorship of the Blue-White games, meetings at which members heard special guest speakers from the world of sports, and a banquet for Duke lettermen.

The meetings held during the course of the year took place in the clubroom located in the Indoor Stadium. The chair was occupied by Sam Yancy, President of the Varsity "D" Club. The club's other officers were Dave Jones, vice-president, and Dick Heizentater, secretary-treasurer. An individual seeking admission to the Varsity "D" Club qualifies if he has earned a letter in any inter-scholastic sport, and if he has paid the nominal yearly dues. With a short, but successful history, the club looks to the future for a larger membership and a still wider range of activities.

Delta Phi Rho Alpha

Basketball, volleyball, tennis, swimming, bowling—these are just some of the activities encouraged by Delta Phi Rho Alpha. This local athletic honorary for women, besides encouraging athletic participation and interest, serves to recognize students who have shown interest, good sportsmanship, and ability in at least two sports.

The individual members strive to encourage interest and participation in sports by their own participation. Also, the group annually presents a gold key to the senior girl who has most actively promoted athletic participation and interest.

The honorary consists of junior and senior girls, usually tapped in the spring. It was established on the Duke Campus in 1921, and since then has contributed to the growth of athletic opportunities for women.

Alpha Kappa Psi

Meeting every two weeks, Alpha Kappa Psi, national business and commercial fraternity, carried out a busy program to supplement the formal education of its members. The organization sponsored research projects in commerce, in accounting, and in financing. Aiming to raise standards in their profession, they evaluated the courses leading to a degree in business administration and studied the public relations followed in the field. The group took several field trips in which they applied class-room theories to actual situations. In addition, they invited several prominent business men from the area to speak at their dinner meetings.

Highlights of the year were the award banquets, observance of Founder's Day, and pledging, which took place twice this year. Majors in business administration, accounting, and economics with a "C" average were able to pledge. A scholastic key and a certificate were awarded to the senior business major who had the highest average for three years, and an award was also presented to the outstanding member.

Alpha Kappa Psi is the oldest national honorary in its field; the Duke chapter is 56 years old. Mr. Herbert Hahn acted as faculty advisor this year.

The Arnold Air Society was founded in 1947 in honor of the Commanding General of the Army Air Forces during World War II, General H. H. "Hap" Arnold. The organization is a national honorary which salutes the outstanding cadets in each detachment. The Society has been active on the Duke University campus since 1950.

Under the direction and guidance of Major Halstead, the Arnold Air Society has set for itself the goals of promoting good citizenship in this modern age of air and space, as well as lending its support to the United States Air Force. To realize these ends, various members of the Society direct the local Civil Air Patrol program. In addition, they act as instructors to teach drill procedure in the Durham schools. Finally, the Society sponsors an annual drill competition for neighboring AFROTC and NROTC drill teams.

AFROTC cadets are accepted to the Arnold Air Society only after they have met the following qualifications: the candidate must indicate a definite interest in the organization; he must be passed by a selection board; and he must maintain a "C" average in his overall curriculum.

In January of 1958, the first initiation of the Corsairs was held. This organization was founded at Duke to recognize significant achievement by midshipmen in the naval reserve program at Duke. Since its founding, the Corsairs Society has made progress toward the attainment of its threefold goal: to honor outstanding midshipmen, to increase the esprit de corps in the NROTC, and to stimulate interest in the Navy on the Duke campus.

Only juniors and seniors are eligible for membership in the Corsairs. In addition, candidates for membership must display a good attitude toward the naval program and its work. A "B" average in naval science and an overall "C" average are also necessary qualifications for membership.

Although the Corsairs Society functions to a small degree on the Duke University campus, its influence may be felt in the naval reserve program and at NROTC activities. Attempting to fulfill the need for an NROTC honorary fraternity, this society promotes interest in naval activities and the ideals of outstanding achievement in such activities. Meetings are held regularly and often feature talks by naval officers. At the present time, the members of this organization are working toward an eventual expansion into a national naval honorary society.

Pi Tau Sigma

Pi Tau Sigma, the national honorary mechanical engineering fraternity, has been active at Duke since Pi Iota chapter was installed on May 13, 1944. This year, the group sponsored review lectures for the E.I.T. examination; presented an award to the senior mechanical engineer who presented the best paper, either in class or in professional society competition; and gave an award to the sophomore mechanical engineer with the highest academic average. President Bob Biggers and Vice-President Britt Burns, with the sponsorship of Professor Elsevier, led this year's group in its activities. Other officers were Corresponding Secretary Ron Busch, Recording Secretary Ron Kalish, and Treasurer Bill Wheaton.

The fraternity, which has chapters on sixty-seven campuses and a membership of over 30,000, works to foster the high ideals of the engineering profession, to promote the mutual professional welfare of its members, and to develop in mechanical engineering students the attributes necessary for effective leadership and the assumption of democratic responsibilities. Members are selected from the top twenty-five per cent of the junior class and the top thirty-five percent of the senior class.

Kappa Delta Pi

In these days when the need of more scholastic guides for the younger generation is so urgently felt, the importance of an education honorary is self-evident. Several meetings of the past year were devoted to discussion of the dilemmas facing new teachers. These meetings were open to non-members so as to include all education students interested in these problems. In addition to the annual banquet, the society met to hear guest speakers in the field.

Membership in this professional honorary is restricted to juniors, seniors, and graduate students. The qualifications demand a status in the upper fifth of the class, and a "B" average in education courses. Initiation carries with it the implication that these students have evident potential for attaining success in a teaching career. Induction of new members occurs at the end of each semester, the spring tapping being much longer, due to the greater number of students having completed student-teaching. The honorary continues to function during the summer as primarily a graduate society.

Kappa Delta Pi is national in scope, and there are presently 220 college chapters. The Duke chapter has been in existence since 1927.

Sigma Pi Sigma

Those Duke students who have displayed an exceptional ability in the science of physics find a common meeting ground in the Sigma Pi Sigma honorary. Duke's Beta Chapter, founded in 1925, has the distinction of being the second oldest chapter in the nation. The guiding purpose of this fraternity is to bring about a closer relationship among physics students and between these students and the faculty of the Physics Department. Other prime functions of the group are to recognize the superior students in physics and mathematics, and to encourage and promote work and study in these fields.

William Baylis performed the duties of gavel-wielder during the past year, assisted by the other officers: Dudley Bryant, Vice-President; Samuel So, Secretary; and James Sawyers, Treasurer. Dr. W. H. Williamson served as advisor to the group. Several business meetings were held throughout the year in addition to the spring picnic, which was given for students and faculty of the Physics Department.

Individuals are qualified for admission to Sigma Pi Sigma after having completed eleven semester hours in physics. A minimum "B" average is required, both in physics and in overall course work.

Psi Chi Delta is the Duke chapter of the national psychology honorary, Psi Chi, with which it affiliated in 1958. It is the avowed purpose of this chapter to nurture the "spark of psychological ability and achievement by offering a climate congenial to its creative development." The climate is bound to be thus, for after having climbed above eight semester hours of psychology to reach an overall grade point average of 2.8 and a 3.0 average in psychology, who wouldn't be congenial? The students who attain this summit naturally have the common interests necessary to unite and advance the science of psychology and to encourage, stimulate, and maintain scholarship of the individual members in all fields, particularly in psychology. This year, led by Barbara Bradbury and advised by Dr. Spielberger, the group decided to admit certain worthy students, who have completed the scholastic ascent, in both a spring and fall initiation. In addition to honoring students for achievement in psychology, the organization informs its members of vocational and professional opportunities in this field and informs them of advancement in psychological research.

Pi Mu Epsilon

Pi Mu Epsilon, the national mathematics honorary society, was established at Duke University in 1932 to stimulate interest and promote scholarship in mathematics. Since its founding, this honorary has grown steadily, and boasts a large and enthusiastic membership. Admission to membership is restricted to those students whose interest has already been stimulated enough to complete Math 52, and whose scholarship has been promoted to an overall "B" and a "B" in math through second semester calculus. Be the standards for membership as high as they may, the group initiates new members twice yearly, in the spring and fall. At each of these meetings the just-welcomed neophytes are either bewildered or inspired by papers read by senior math majors or professors. Sponsored by Dr. F. G. Dressel and directed by John Koskinen, the individuals of this group strive to gain the intellectual equippage which will best prepare them to march into the cruel world of unknown "X's" and IBM machines.

Sigma Delta Pi

"O-ley!" accompanied by the flourish of a red cape, may be the secret password of Duke's Spanish honorary. However, due to a dearth of bull fights in the Durham area, the members of Sigma Delta Pi were limited to more urbane activities. The group met monthly under the sponsorship of Senor Castellano, and held an initiation banquet and a spring dinner at which guest speakers were invited to speak on subjects pertinent to Spain or Spanish life. The group also held picnics as get-togethers during favorable weather.

This honorary stresses the improvement of spoken Spanish and strives to further its members' appreciation of Spanish cultural contributions. In addition to rewarding those students who have shown outstanding attainments and interest in the study of the language, Sigma Delta Pi endeavors to promote a better understanding of relations between Spanish and English speaking countries and to acquaint its members with the opportunities for travel and employment in connection with this language.

Students taking Spanish courses on the 91 level or above, and who show interest in the language and culture, are admitted to the honorary on the basis of an overall "B" average as well as a "B" average in all Spanish courses.

Pi Sigma Alpha

To stimulate interest in public affairs and government is the purpose of Pi Sigma Alpha, National Political Science Honor Society. Taking advantage of the election year, Pi Sigma Alpha sponsored a fall panel discussion, "Will the Sleeper Issues Determine the Election?" In the spring the society sponsored a symposium, "Criteria for Survival."

Founded on the Duke Campus in 1955, the honorary selects members from those students who have completed ten semester hours of political science with a B-average, are in the upper third of their class, and evince an interest in political science. Dr. Roma S. Cheek is the group's sponsor.

Theta Alpha Phi

The cast of Theta Alpha Phi is not limited to Duke actors and actresses deserving of a star on their dressing room doors. It includes, as well, those students who have made outstanding contributions to campus productions in such endeavors as directing, playwriting, or business management. By recognition of these students, the drama honorary strives to stimulate interest and creativeness and to promote artistic achievement in the theatre arts. Initiations were held each semester, and the annual banquet was given in honor of the graduating members.

Order of Hippocrates

Each semester the members of the Order of Hippocrates are honored at a banquet given by the Duke Pre-Medical Society, and at this time, new members are initiated into the Order. Membership in the Pre-Med Society is the first requirement for induction to the Order of Hippocrates. A candidate must also have a 3.0 overall average in a minimum of 75 semester hours, and a 3.0 average in the pre-med sciences. Members of this honorary are those students who have contributed significantly to extra-curricular organizations, and who have exemplified the qualities of character essential to a successful medical career.

Kappa Kappa Psi

Kappa Kappa Psi promoted interest in music this year by publicizing and ushering for the Concert Band, sponsoring a music entry in the Joe College Parade, entertaining visiting bands after football games, and planning the High School Solo and Ensemble Contest. This organization is a national band honorary which recognizes outstanding college bandsmen. Members are admitted on the basis of active participation and outstanding musicianship shown during one year in the Marching Band or in the Concert Band.

The President

Duke University

Dr. Deryl Hart

Dr. Julian Deryl Hart assumed his duties as President of Duke University on March 7, 1961. A native of Prattsburg, Georgia, he received his B.A. and M.A. from Emory College and Emory University. He attended Medical School at The Johns Hopkins University and then remained there as a surgeon and instructor of surgery until 1930. Dr. Hart came to Duke in 1930 as a professor of surgery and Chairman of the Department in the Duke University School of Medicine, which position he held until his appointment as President Pro-Tem on July 1, 1960.

At present he is a Governor of the American College of Surgeons and a member of the Executive Committee of the Board of Governors. He is also a member of the Council of the Southern Society of Clinical Surgeons. The President is also active in several local charities and organizations and last year directed the local drive for the American Heart Fund. As an outstanding doctor, leader, and philanthropist, Dr. Hart commands the respect due to his position as President of Duke University.

BUNYAN SNIPES WOMBLE
CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Serving as the legislative branch of Duke University's government, the Board of Trustees has many diversified tasks. These duties include the confirmation of appointments to the faculty, the regulation and legislation of the rules and by-laws of the university, and the approval and issuing of diplomas and marks of recognition. Of vital importance also is the Board's responsibility for the election of the University's president and for Duke's financial organization.

This year the Board was under the direction of the newly appointed chairman, Bunyan Snipes Womble of Winston-Salem, North Carolina. The thirty-six members of the Board are appointed by the North Carolina Methodist Church in conjunction with the university Alumni Association. The trustees serve a term of six years. Since meetings are held only twice a year, a seven member Executive Committee is chosen by the Board to carry out business requiring immediate attention.

General Administration

Allen Building, centrally situated on West Campus, has a location of symbolic significance, for Allen Building is the veritable heart of the University. Within this structure are housed the vast workings and machinations of Duke's administration.

Alfred Smith Brower, Treasurer of the University, serves on the Investment Committee. The newest member of the administration is R. Taylor Cole, the Provost of the University. Dr. Cole is responsible for setting the academic calendar of the University. John M. Dozier holds two offices, those of Secretary and Assistant Business Manager.

The man directly responsible for many of Duke's financial affairs, G. C. Henricksen has for many years served as Business Manager and Comptroller. Serving as Dean of Trinity College and Vice President in the Division of Student life is Dr. Herbert J. Herring.

Marcus E. Hobbs has been concerned with the University for the past twenty-five years. Beginning as an instructor in the Chemistry Department in 1935, Dr. Hobbs is at present Assistant Provost and Dean of the University.

A vice-president in the Division of Public Relations is Charles E. Jordan. Mr. Jordan is active in the fields of alumni relations, public information, appointments and placements, and intercollegiate

The University Registrar, Richard L. Tuthill, was appointed in January, 1954. Dr. Tuthill is responsible for student admissions and records.

Trinity College was once an institution in itself, and now with the growth of Duke University it still remains the heart of the larger institution. It includes all male members of Duke's undergraduate body with the exception of the Engineers, and is primarily concerned with the advancement of the Liberal Arts program. The position of Dean of Trinity College is held by Dr. Alan K. Manchester, a member of the History Department, and a holder of degrees from three nationally known universities. His duties involve regulating and supervising the academic program of the college. Dr. Manchester is assisted by Dean Howard A. Strobel who specializes in academic counseling as well as being an Assistant Professor of Chemistry. Dean Charles Johnson, a holder of three degrees from Duke, is Assistant Dean in charge of upperclassmen. Dean Barney L. Jones, also a Duke graduate, is an Assistant Professor of Religion and being Dean of Freshmen, serves as master of ceremonies at the weekly Freshman Assemblies. Outside the academic realm, Dean Robert B. Cox is the busiest and most well-known figure in Trinity College. "The Great White Father," as he is known to the students, has held the position of Dean of Undergraduate Men since 1946. His primary responsibilities lie in counseling undergraduates on almost any conceivable matter not pertaining to academics. At night Dean Cox is generally kept quite busy breaking up "any group of students causing unnecessary noise or destruction" and speaking at freshman house meetings.

Everett B. Weatherspoon, Admissions Director of Trinity College and the College of Engineering, is the man responsible for upholding the standards set down by James B. Duke in his request that "great care and discrimination be exercised in admitting as students only those whose previous records show a character, determination, and application evincing a wholesome and real ambition for life." The Class of 1964 should fulfill every facet of the great benefactor's request. From some 3,028 applications, 686 young men representing 39 states and 6 foreign countries were selected. On the basis of test scores and past school records this was potentially the best entering class in the history of Duke University.

The various departments of Trinity College are all involved in numerous specialized research projects. Through these projects and the high academic standards it maintains, Trinity College does the bulk of work in upholding and improving the reputation of Duke University.

HOWARD A. STROBEL, B.S., Ph.D. ASSISTANT DEAN OF TRINITY COLLEGE

WALTER J. SEELEY, E.E., M.S.
DEAN OF THE COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

College of Engineering

The College of Engineering is divided into departments of Civil, Electrical, and Mechanical Engineering. Dean Walter J. Seely, president of the southeastern section of the American Society for Engineering Education, is head of the College and responsible for the details of its administration. Dr. Earl Ivan Brown II, a prominent name in Who's Who in Engineering, heads the Department of Civil Engineering, while the Electrical Engineering Department is run by Dr. Charles R. Vail, who is active in the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. John N. Macduff rounds out the administration of the College as head of the Department of Mechanical Engineering.

This year the College of Engineering received over $100,000 in government grants for research in six different fields. The largest of these projects, financed by a $57,000 atomic energy grant, was the development of low temperature electronics in order to construct faster and more compact computers. Other projects included research on vibration, soil analysis, hyperbolic paraboloidal surfaces, and old age.

1960 also saw the beginning of a newly approved Ph.D. program in electrical engineering with an enrollment of four men. The College also had an unsually large graduate enrollment of 32 and saw a new high in its female enrollment with five woman engineers. Another inovation was the reduction of requirements for graduation from 148 semester hours to 142, thus lessening the freshmen course load.

The College of Engineering was incorporated as a division of Duke University in 1939 but instruction in engineering goes back to 1887 in Trinity College. The college is one of the fastest progressing institutions at Duke. It now offers a combined Liberal Arts-Engineering program with nine well known liberal arts colleges. The Engineering Building, completed in 1948 and located on west campus, is fully equipped with modern laboratories, drafting rooms, and a 27,500 volume engineering library.

The affairs of the College of Engineering are administered by the Dean of the College with the assistance of an Executive Committee which includes the Chairmen of the three Departments of Engineering, the assistant to the Dean, and the Dean of Undergraduate Instruction of the University. The legislative end of the college is handled by the Engineering Faculty Council, which is responsible for the curriculum and for determining policies in educational and administrative matters that pertain exclusively to the College of Engineering. The College, as an integral part of the University, gives the student the opportunity to enjoy the facilities of the entire physical and academic plant.

ROBERTA FLORENCE BRINKLEY, B.A., M.A., Ph.D., L.L.D., DEAN OF THE WOMAN'S COLLEGE

MARY GRACE WILSON, B.A., M.A. DEAN OF UNDERGRADUATE WOMEN

Woman's College

The four years spent in the Woman's College of Duke University are important in preparing and directing the course of a woman's life after college. This preparation includes education, not only in the narrow textbook sense, but also in the broader concept of living together as a responsible community. The responsibility for this education rests on the effort of individual students and on the efforts of those in authority to anticipate and meet her needs.

The deans of the Woman's College endeavor to meet their responsibility to the students with long hours of work. By working closely with the students in various activities, they share problems of administration and student life and give the students the opportunity to participate in finding solutions.

LILLIAN LEE, B.A., M.Ed.
ASSISTANT DEAN OF UNDERGRADUATE WOMEN

ELLEN HARRIS HUCKABEE, B.A., M.A. DEAN OF UNDERGRADUATE INSTRUCTION

Women of long experience in the field of education comprise the dean's staffs of the College. Miss Roberta Florence Brinkley, Dean of the Woman's College was graduated from Agnes Scott College. She received her M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from George Peabody College for Teachers and from Yale University. She is the author of a number of books and articles on Seventeenth Century English. Miss Mary Grace Wilson, Dean of Undergraduate Women, graduated from Winthrop College and received her M.A. from Columbia. She coordinates the non-academic affairs of the college student life. Miss Lillian Lee assumed the duties of Assistant Dean of Undergraduate Women this year. A graduate of Duke University, she received her M.S. in education from Indiana University. In her new capacity, Miss Lee serves as advisor to the treasurers of campus organizations and handles student employment.

Miss Ellen Huckabee, as Dean of Undergraduate Instruction, serves as academic advisor to the Freshman Advisory Council. Associate Dean of Undergraduate Instruction, Miss Marianna Jenkins, received her A.B. and Ph.D. from Bryn Mawr and her M.A. from Radcliffe. She serves as academic advisor to junior and senior women. Mrs. W. S. Persons, Director of Admissions, was awarded her B.A. and M.A. degrees from Duke.

Graduate and Professional Schools

The graduate schools of Duke University provide a wide range of opportunities for advanced work in various felds. The diverse curriculum is reinforced by many well-known instructors who have contributed significantly in their fields.

The largest graduate school, the School of Arts and Sciences, offers graduate work covering the basic courses of undergraduate study at Duke. Twenty-two departments give a wide range of subject choice to those aiming for their Master of Arts or a Doctor of Philosophy degree.

Duke University's Divinity School proudly claims its rank among the top ten in the nation. The school is staffed by men from all Protestant denominations. Previously, successful completion has culminated in a degree of Bachelor of Divinity or Master of Religious Education. This year the Master of Theology degree has been added to further opportunities of study.

Despite the School of Nursing's primary function as an undergraduate school, work leading to a Master of Science is also offered. By working in Duke Hospital, Durham Health Department, and Carolina Cerebral Palsy Hospital, graduate nurses have a chance to gain practical experience.

A wide range of work is discovered by those who enter Duke's Medical School. Its location in Duke Hospital presents great opportunity to add practical to theoretical knowledge. Upon fulfillment of the established standards, the degrees of Masters of Science in Medicine and Medical Technology and Doctor of Medicine are conferred.

The program of study in the Law School leads to the degrees of Bachelor of Law, Master of Law and Doctor of Juridicial Science. Comprehensive courses covering almost any field of law, one of the largest law libraries in the country, and the utilization of a Legal Aid Clinic strengthen its educational position.

Specialization in the School of Forestry leads to the degree of Master or Doctor of Forestry. Practical work can be done in the Arboretum, greenhouses and Duke Forest.

The James B. Duke Professors

In 1953, twelve million dollars in the Duke endowment fund formed the basis of a system of merit for Duke faculty members. In honor of the University's principal benefactor and founder of the endowment fund, James B. Duke Professorships are granted as an honor to those who have excelled in particular fields of scolarship and university life. Fourteen professors of the University have received this coveted award.

The Department of Alumni Affairs is one of the most active organizations of Duke University. Because the department maintains contact with more than 37,000 alumni, its influence is felt in almost all areas of the United States, Mr. Charles Dukes, as director of the department, heads the staff in its extensive program. The Department of Alumni Affairs arranges class reunions on such occasions as Homecoming, Founder's Day, Alumni Day, and Commencement. The department schedules meetings of former students at events of intellectual or athletic significance. In addition, it supports class organizations and arranges concerts and lectures for former students. This year the members of the first football team to wear the Duke "D" in 1925 were on hand to join in the Homecoming festivities.

Important links between the University and its alumni are the publications of the Department of Alumni Affairs. The Alumni Register, a magazine devoted to alumni affairs, is published ten times annually, while the Alumni Newsletter is sent to former students quarterly. Still another service rendered by the department is its continuous support of the Loyalty Fund. The Loyalty Fund offers interested persons an opportunity to contribute financially to Duke's growth and is a vital part of the financial program of the University.

In addition, the Department of Alumni Affairs bridges the gap between the activities of the students, faculty, and alumni of Duke University. The staff serves on student organization boards and supports student projects.

Libraries

One of Duke's greatest claims to prestige is the University Library. Among colleges and universities throughout the nation, the Duke University Library is ranked fifteenth by volume. In addition to the 1,435,164 books listed in the catalogue, there are 2,759,770 manuscripts and maps, as well as microfilms, recordings, musical scores, and an outstanding collection of rare books. The Woman's College and specialized libraries in the schools of Medicine, Divinity, Engineering, Law, Biology-Forestry, Chemistry, and Mathematics-Physics provide convenient collections of books related to specific fields. Of special interest are the manuscript collections. An extensive collection has been made about South Atlantic history and social life, with emphasis on the Confederate Period. Available also is a notable collection of Walt Whitman's works and several mediaevel manuscripts. Valuable collections of Italian, French, British, and American literature, histories of China, Brazil, Peru, Ecuador, and the Philippines, and selections on Socialism and Church History are also to be found in the manuscript collection.

Dr. Benjamin Powell, who directs the library staff of nearly one hundred employees, holds degrees from Columbia and Chicago Universities, and is the past president of the American Library Association.

Though some are engaged in off-campus activities . . .

and most in academic pursuit . . .

Seniors still find time to set an example in leadership for the rest of the undergraduate student body.

The Class of 1961

Beginning their fourth and last year with traditional university formalities, the senior classes presided at solemn flag raising ceremonies on both East and West Campus. Later in the fall came the annual social activities of Homecoming Weekend sponsored by the senior class. Keeping up with the everchanging business cycles, the seniors on East put out a pamphlet on job opportunities, so that none of the co-eds would be caught jobless when the next recession comes along.

With a double purpose in mind, the East Seniors sponsored two silver displays and one china display. This enabled them to add to the already abundant class treasury, and also gave the girls a chance to see the latest patterns in china and silver. This group wound up their last year with a formal banquet in the spring and with participation in Class Night.

The Class of 1961 on both East and West Campus presented gifts to the University, and thus, in departing, left a tangible reminder of four years' hard work and good times.

The Class of 1962

The class of 1962 this year placed emphasis on activity unifying the class for their last two years. Most of the business of the Juniors on East was delegated to the Executive Board, thus limiting the number of meetings to two per semester. To increase the spirit and weight of the class as a whole, the co-eds had a picnic in November. When they wined and dined at their class banquet in the spring, the juniors enjoyed another opportunity to get together.

With class night came the climax of the juniors' year. Various honoraries tapped new members and the juniors officially took the title of seniors. Instead of picking a project to earn money, the class collected dues which will be used for the presentation of a gift to the University upon graduation.

Juniors growing wise in the ways of the world by study ...

Come Sophomore year a young man's fancy turns to moving out of the frosh dorms.

Sophomore honoraries sponsor dances in an effort to afford the freshman a glimpse of social life.

Sophomores with wheels soon learn that the invincible Duke Law Enforcement Branch gives no quarter in its neverceasing struggle against the underworld and traffic violators,

The Class of 1963

The major activities of the sophomore class first semester centered around the new class of freshmen. Soon after they arrived, the freshmen were presented with bows and dinks numbered "1964." The sophomores were accorded the title "most worthy sophomores," and they made the freshmen adhere to certain rules, including the wearing of dinks and bows at all times. Thanks to the usual Durham rain the sophomore-sponsored Dink-Bow Day, complete with combo, was held in the old gymnasium.

The co-eds, trying to achieve a unity of spirit throughout the class, planned a slumber party in the East Campus gym. For their class project, the girls staged the traditional sophomore sale of cider and doughnuts in the dorms on East. The money earned will go towards the class gift at graduation.

Jim Abbot, Treasurer; Roger Kissam, President.

The Class of 1964

The arrival of September brought a new group to Duke University, the Class of 1964. Floundering through the be-wildering maze of tests, tours, conferences, Y-Men, FAC's, assemblies, registration, mixers, and open-houses, the freshmen somehow survived and ended the week with a picnic and the Frosh Y-Dance. The upperclassmen arrived bringing books and classes to the forefront.

With the beginning of class the Frosh settled down to the not-so-exciting everyday routine of studying. But Dink-Bow Day, gathering wood for pep rally bonfires, and other freshman activities offered a lighter side to college life. After a few weeks the class elected their officers and began to work on various projects.

The Class of 1964 showed remarkable adaptability to the college campus and actively participated in the college community. With the highest SAT scores of any class to enter Duke, these freshmen showed how scholarship and concern for the college community could be combined.

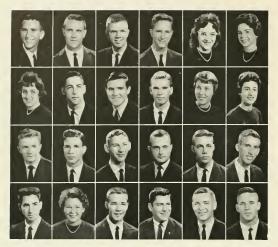

For freshmen, life at Duke means new acquaintances. Many braved the Sunday rain shower to meet the President . . .

The more outgoing personality types met each other.

These foresighted and chivalrous young men met the Navy goat at the train station and provided him with proper lodging accommodations.

Nurses Executive Board

The Nurses' Executive Council acts as a congress in representing each member of the Student Government Association. Among its purposes are the development of individual responsibility, the recommendation of regulations which enable the Association to function more effectively, and the enforcement of the Association Constitution.

The Council consists of a president, vice-president, corresponding secretary, recording secretary, treasurer, the Chairmen of the Honor Council, the Chairmen of the standing committees, and the President of the Freshman Class.

The Council's services include Freshman Orientation, various publications, sponsorship of social and religious activities, an athletic program, the coordination of the facilities of the School of Nursing with those of Duke hospital, and participation in the North Carolina State Student Nurses' Association

Peggy King, Chairman of Nurses Executive Board.

The Judicial Board

Betty Mraz, Chairman of the Nurses Judicial Board.

The responsibilities delegated to the Judicial Board include those of trying infractions of the Student Government Association rules, working with Social Standards to maintain all aspects of student conduct, to try cases referred by the Social Standards Committee, to have charge of affairs concerning the welfare of students living in the Nurse's residence, and to enforce the house rules set forth in the Nursing Handbook.

The Board is composed of a chairman, who is the Vice-President of the Student Government Association, the Honor Council Chairman, the vice-presidents of the four classes, the Recording Secretary of the Student Government Association, the Social Standards Chairman, and one member elected from each class.

Future plans have been made to revise many of the present rules, in order to increase the individual's sense of responsibility and to insure more orderly conduct with regard to social regulations.

Social Standards

The Social Standards Committee is composed of two members elected from each class and a chairman, who is a senior and elected by the student body. The chairman is also a member of the Executive Council of the Nurse's Student Government Association and of the Judicial Board.

This year the committee has attempted to revise many of the rules that had become decadent and plans have been made to continue this revision next year. All infractions of the rules laid down by this committee are tried by the committee with the assistance from the Judicial Board and the Honor Council when necessary.

It is hoped that the social standard rules set down for each student nurse will help her to form the concepts and exemplify the conduct that is socially and morally acceptable to her school, her fellow students, and her profession.

Carol Seaton, Chairman of the Nurses Social Standards Committee.

SEATED: C. Hartline, C. Seaton, A. Dodson. STANDING: P. Campbell, L. Mayne, B. Brod, M. Hanes.

Freshmen Advisory Council

Ann Donnelley, Chairman of Nurses FAC.

That September day when the new freshmen student nurse arrives marks the beginning of a week crowded with activities. She is confronted by students, faculty members, classmates, a house mother, a big sister, and a girl in white. This girl in white is her Freshman Advisory Counselor, a sophomore student nurse who will give her and the five or six other girls in her group a clearer insight into the Duke way of life.

The Freshman Advisory Council helps plan and guide all organized activities during Freshman Week and also has the responsibility of helping the new students to learn the rules of the School of Nursing. The FAC's duties officially end when the Student Government Association test is administered in late autumn, but many of the girls find that a lasting relationship has formed which continues through the years.

FRONT: B. Wishnov, D. McKay. Row Two: C. Frey, N. Hooper, A. Donnelley, M. Denyes, C. Kreider. Row Three: D. Lehmann, E. Havens, P. Zimmerman, A. Hix, B. Brod, S. Norwood.

Honor Council

One of the most outstanding privileges of the Duke Student Nurse is the opportunity to participate in carrying out the code of the Honor System. Each girl signs a pledge when she enters the School of Nursing which thereafter pervades her academic life, her professional life, and her social life. The Honor System is a permanent responsibility, but one which every girl proudly carries. It helps create a more trusting and trusted group of girls. It is widely respected, and as a result of its success, each girl enjoys many privileges not otherwise granted.

The Honor Council, a body composed of students elected to this position, tries each reported breach of the Honor Code, and the decision they reach is considered final. The Honor System provides each girl with the opportunity to become a mature and responsible woman as well as a respected member of her chosen profession.

Barbara Unger, Chairman of the Nurses Honor Council.

Student Nurses Life

Orientation week the Freshmen arrive, and after many tours, trips around campus, pre-tests and course registration, classes begin. During the year the Freshmen spend much of their time on East Campus taking many liberal arts courses. The Sophomore year comes quickly, and after "capping" in September, the student starts caring for her first patients.

Throughout this year and the two subsequent ones, the student finds the Hanes House library of great value—as many good medical references are easily accessible within the dormitory. Student-faculty parties give the sophomore students a chance to be with their instructors outside the classroom.

The Junior year marks the beginning of the "quarter rotations" which are continued through the Senior year. However, the student is not limited to nursing alone, since belonging to the many campus activities, and attending campus lectures give her a chance to widen the scope of her education.

As the Senior year draws to a close, there are many parties such as the Alumnae Banquet and the Junior-Senior Banquet which mark the end of a girl's life as a student. Graduation is at hand, and the student dons a white uniform, gets her Duke School of Nursing pin, and her Bachelor of Science Degree in Nursing. As a professional registered nurse with her degree she is prepared to assume an important status within her community.
